Educational doors unlocked for women in prison

By PEGGY OLSEN
Staff Writer

Amy Averett earned a bachelor's degree in just 15 months from the University of La Verne. She is now enrolled at Claremont Graduate School, striving for a doctorate in social psychology.

Miss Averett, 33, achieved that remarkable "record time" accomplishment behind prison walls in the university's Educational Programs in Correctional Institutions at the California Institution for Women near Chino.

A high school dropout and a first-time offender, Miss Averett entered the women's prison in January 1979. Innate intelligence enabled her to quickly earn a high school diploma and enroll in the college-level program.

It was a path she chose because "the lifestyle here is necessarily limited and education helps to broaden your outlook."

Involvement in education "gives distance" and helps students set goals for the future. Also important is the fact that "education separates you from the criminal lifestyle." It would be difficult to remain in education and maintain previous values because it provides perspective and enables a person to see herself as "a part of the rest of the world," Miss Averett observed.

She entered the institution with "a stereotyped view of what inmates were like." But she soon discovered that "people here are no different from people anywhere. People here are every bit as human despite what some people think."

That knowledge, she explained, prompted her to become interested in social psychology, a subject she plans to teach after she is paroled in 1981.

Bambi Velasquez, 35, a woman who by her own admission has been in and out of CIW for the past 11 years, expects to be paroled next month. Because she has gained some skill in an appliance repair class, she believes she may be able to get a job and stay out of prison.

"They didn't have classes like this when I first came here. Now my attitude has changed. I think I've got a better chance. I don't feel so defeated."

Both the elementary, secondary and college-level academic and vocational education programs at the institution are directed by Marvin L. Rector, supervisor of correctional education programs.

"These women represent a cross-section of society. They range from functional illiterates to people with college-level abilities," he reported. The average woman at CIW, Rector explained, tests at about the ninth-grade academic level.

The supervisor's major goal is to provide programs that will appeal to as many women as possible, particularly since prisoners are not compelled to enroll in any program. Of the 925 inmates at the institution, about 150 are involved in academic programs and 200 attend vocational education classes.

In Rector's view, the programs assist women in finding a sense of direction for their lives. The recidivism rate among those enrolled in educational programs is less than for the general prison population, he emphasized.

Since being named supervisor in 1971, Rector has initiated a year-round program, introduced "open-entry, open-exist" classes and developed a learning center which provides individualized instruction at the elementary and secondary levels.

He has also encouraged Ted White, vocational education supervisor since 1976, to provide "up-to-date, high-interest programs that will provide marketable skills."

Prior to 1976, Rector said, the facility offered programs such as vocational housekeeping and sewing which drew little response from the inmates.

White has conducted job market surveys and involved all instructors in helping parolees to obtain employment. He estimates they achieve about a 50 percent success rate.

Sara Grizzard, who will be paroled in about four months, hopes to find a job in the computer field. She has become skilled in data entry, computer operations and computer programming in the class taught by Neil Murdoch.

Deborah Reed plans to live in a half-way house in Claremont after she is paroled. Once "out on the streets," she recognizes that she must learn to be self-sufficient. She hopes to find employment as a phototypesetter, a skill she learned from graphic arts instructor Eugene Carper.

Other vocational education programs offered are cosmetology, secretarial science and medical assistance. About 17 women attend classes offered at California Institution for Men in sheet metal, welding, machine shop, auto repair and animal grooming.

In general, Rector said, the institution has not observed discrimination in the job market against ex-offenders. With few exceptions, the attitude of employers appears to be "if you train them, we'll hire them," he said.

Also available is a class in life skills, taught by Bruce Goya, a Chaffey College counselor. The class benefits the women because it helps them gain perspective for "life on the streets," to make career plans and to function in general, said Maryann Acker, a peer counselor and college-level student.

Success of the class, Miss Acker said, depends upon the "attitudes of the women and whether or not they follow through."

College courses offered through University of La Verne can lead to both associate in art and bachelor of science degrees. Since inception of the program, three women have earned bachelor's degrees and 27 have received the associate in arts degrees, reported Dr. William Willoughby who heads the university's correctional institutions programs.

He sees the program as beneficial because it reduces the recidivism rate by encouraging women to "orient themselves to a non-criminal environment."

Statistics show that 60 percent of the general prison population returns to an institution, while only 15 percent of those involved in educational programs serve subsequent sentences, he said.

Dr. Nick Polos, ULV history teacher, sees a contrast between students at the university and those at the prison.

The university student hasn't yet had "a real brush with reality." But, said Polos, "you don't have to frame reality for these ladies who have experienced ironic tragedy."

The women enrolled in Polos' class "apply themselves and are excellent students. The bottom line," he said, "is that you see these people as human beings. That's the first step toward rehabilitation."

If Upland facility to stay open

Boys' Club asks for support

By DINAH ROSE
Staff Writer

West End Boys' Club board members agreed Thursday to make a final all-out effort to keep the Upland facility open — providing they get community support.

Five board members met with about 20 concerned parents in a special meeting following an announcement earlier this week of plans to close the Upland club. The Ontario branch was shut down permanently last Friday.

"The problem is simply finances," board President Jim Hampton told the group. "The (West End) United Way gives us $54,000 a year, and the 10 kids we may have in this unit at one time is just not enough."

Board member Shirley Patrick said $6,000 would have to be raised by the first of the month in order to keep the site, at 496 E. C St., open through December.

"That's just for payroll, lights, the mortgage, workers' compensation, gas and repairs," she said. "The mortgage itself is $500 a month — which may not sound too bad unless you have no money at all."

The club's Executive Director George Conward resigned Monday night, and according to the Boys' Club charter there must be an executive director for the chapter to operate.

Conward, present at Thursday's meeting, said he would consider staying on another month if the necessary funds could be raised.

"I've been here 15 months," he said, "so another month or two or three probably shouldn't make that much of a difference."

He said he already told the board he would stay through Dec. 15 without pay to help close the facility down.

Board member Gonzalo Miramontez said the club has been in financial trouble the past 3-4 years, as evidenced by the high turnover of executive directors.

"We'd get a new one every six months," he said. "They'd get frustrated and quit."

He added that Conward did not receive much in the way of benefits, and often his paycheck was late.

"This man has a family too, that he must support."

Hampton pointed out that most of the 17-member board just started six months ago, and according to the group's contract with the United Way, all major fund-raising efforts must be frozen from September through December when the United Way sponsors its own drive.

"Our hands are tied right now," said board member George Patrick. "The amount we received from the United Way should have been about 20 percent of our total budget — yet the community support totaled less than $18,000. We have to get the service clubs and the rest of the community behind us if this thing is going to work."

The parents, accompanied by more than 20 children, offered to try and drum up enough interest in the Upland and Ontario area to raise the necessary money.

Hampton publically invited "each and every one of you, your neighbors, your friends — everybody" to the board's next scheduled meeting 7:30 Monday night at the Upland club. If enough citizens showed interest in supporting the club, he said, perhaps the money could be raised in time.

Parents offered other suggestions for money-makers, including sponsoring a fiesta, rummage and bake sales, and trying to attract more members to the board to work with the club.

At her own suggestion, Jennie Ruiz, part-time director of arts and crafts for the Upland unit, contacted actress Nedra Volz to ask her support in the drive.

"I'll be happy to let them use my name," said Volz in a telephone interview Thursday, "and if they come up with an idea for a fund-raiser, I'd be pleased to help out."

Upland Mayor John McCarthy, Police Chief Coy Estes and Recreation Director Larry Thornburg were all present at the meeting, and voiced support for the club.

"If we can get enough money behind the club, it's a very valuable tool in fighting juvenile delinquency," said Estes.

"We appreciate what the board is going through right now — it's a very difficult time."

Mrs. Patrick said the club had definitely reached a crisis point. "But sometimes you need a crisis point to get people motivated.

"Our enthusiasm tonight is a good thing. But we need more people than are here at this meeting to make it all go.

"Monday night will tell the tale."

CRC superintendent reassigned to CIM

By BOB NAGEY
Staff Writer

Glynn B. Smith, 52, superintendent of the California Rehabilitation Center at Norco for the past 3½ years, has been removed from that position.

Smith was reassigned as deputy superintendent of the California Institution for Men in Chino by Ruth Rushen, director of the California Department of Corrections.

The dismissal took effect Thursday. Robert Doran, Smith's assistant at CRC, was named acting superintendent as of next Monday.

Peason for the reassignment was not given in specific terms. Mrs. Rushen said there were a "rash of problems" in recent months at the facility where the state confines narcotics addicts who commit felonies.

She said the problems were of a "secuity nature."

"We had complaints from employees at the center about the laxity of searches and other situations that endangered the secuity of the staff."

She said the department still thinks highly of Smith but "with the changing character of the institution, we felt it was in the best interest of all concerned that we make the reassignment."

The character changes, she explained, involved the transfer of a large number of felons who were criminals first and addicts second. Smith, she added, was more tuned into rehabilitative work than security.

Phil Guthrie, assistant director of the state department, said the California State Employees Association had filed a list of allegations with the department several months ago, prompting an inuqiry into management policies at CRC.

The inquiries resulted in Smith's reassingment to a job that will pay him $300 a month less than he is getting now.

Doran still serves as acting superintendent until a permanent appointee can be found. Guthrie said the state will begin a screening process of applicants next week and hopes to find a new superintendent in about a month.

Smith left the institution Thursday after informing his staff of the director's decision.

Reached at his home in Upland, Smith declined to go into details about what brought about his removal. He pointed out that there had been a lengthy investigation and that "no malfeasance" of his work had been uncovered.

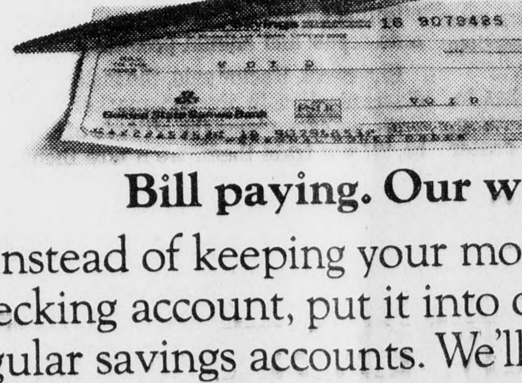
All of a sudden, everybody's paying 5¼% interest on bill-paying funds.

We'll pay you 5½%.

Suddenly, banks are paying interest on their checking accounts and S&L's are issuing checks on their savings accounts.

Sounds terrific, right?

Well, it is—if you write a lot of checks, keep a pretty high balance in your checking account, and really enjoy paying checking charges. But what if you don't?



Bill paying. Our way.

Instead of keeping your money in a checking account, put it into one of our regular savings accounts. We'll pay you 5½% interest. (That's a quarter percent more.) And then, we'll issue you all the free money orders you need to pay your bills.

What's the advantage? Take a look:

1. A quarter percent more interest.
2. No service/checking charges.
3. Instant receipts.
4. No checkbook balancing acts to worry about.

We've been paying you more interest for years. And we don't see any reason to stop now.

Board changes name of school for handicapped

In a sudden move, the name of Cypress Orthopedic School in Ontario was changed to Francis School by the Ontario-Montclair School District board of trustees last week.

It was a victory for Trustee Keith Larick, a former district psychologist, who was able to push through his idea for the change on a 3-2 split vote.

Trustees Rose Kelber and James Strait both opposed the swiftness of the move. Strait said the re-naming of a school offered "a unique opportunity" to recognize a famous person important to the district.

The idea of changing the name of Cypress Orthopedic School apparently was first proposed to Larick by teachers, parents and administrators who wanted "an identity of their own."

People reportedly confuse Cypress Orthopedic School with Cypress School. Both are located next to each other on Cypress Avenue and Francis Street.

Ironically, many people who supported the idea of changing the name seemed to opposed the name of Francis School, said Principal Walt Schaefer.

"Staff was generally supportive of finding the name of a person important to the field of the handicapped, but there was a negative feeling toward using the name Francis School," Schaefer told the board.

After the meeting, Schaefer explained, "This will help reduce confusion. We're not an orthopedic school but a school for developmentally disabled.

"The name Cypress Orthopedic School also makes us sound like a medical facility when our main thrust is education," the new principal added.

Although no financial impact report has been done, the district is in the process of redesigning all its stationery, so a name change will cost nothing, said Superintendent Bill Plaster.

The name change was approved only after some surprising and heated verbal sparring took place among several board members.

When Strait said the action should be delayed while a list of names was compiled, Larick told him, "I might suggest that we had an issue at our last meeting and my request for further study was ignored."

"Well, you did have a report and three days to study it," Strait responded, referring to a report on the physical relocation of administrators.

Brugger noted, "Naming it (the school) after someone right away means forming some kind of committee," to make the final decision.

"We've already got a committee," Strait told her, sarcastically. "It's called 'the school board.'"

Guidelines for group approved

The Claremont school board Monday night unanimously adopted guidelines for the establishment and operation of a community advisory committee on special education.

The board also approved the appointment of 17 persons to the 20-member board which, under the provisions of state legislation, advises the school board on local plans for special education.

In addition, the board is responsible for recommending the yearly priorities of the community's special education plan, assisting in parent education and recruitment and encouraging community involvement in development of and review of the plan.

The district and the Office of the Los Angeles County superintendent of schools have agreed to an interim plan for special education.

The purpose of the plan, which is for the 1980-81 school year, is to help the district develop its own plan for 1981-82.

Under guidelines adopted, the committee must include parents of individuals with special needs who attend either private or public schools, parents of other children enrolled in school, handicapped pupils and adults, "regular education" teachers, "special education" teachers and other school personnel, representatives of private agencies and those individuals who share a concern for persons with special educational needs, with the majority of members being parents whose children have "exceptional needs."

Members will serve three-year terms, with about one-third of the membership having their terms expire each year. Members are limited to two terms.

The only opposition to the measure came from board member Lynn Jackson who questioned the size of the committee.

"I wonder about a 20-member committee and the rationale for that many members," she said.

Bill Case, principal at Danbury School and district coordinator for special education, said the number 20 was chosen because it was hoped that would help bring in more persons.

Other members of the board said that 20 committee members would enable the board to represent various special education needs.

11-member board will pick new district attorney

By DON GREEN
Staff Writer

The county Board of Supervisors set up an 11-member committee Tuesday to help it select the successor to District Attorney Jim Cramer, who will be sworn in Dec. 1 as the assemblyman for the 65th district.

Supervisors concluded a discussion that started last week over how best to get assistance in weeding out candidates for the post.

The committee composition they ultimately approved was very much like the one Chairman James Mayfield first unveiled on Monday.

Each of the five supervisors will name a committee member from his district. Representatives of the San Bernardino, West Vallev and High Desert Bar associations will serve on the committee.

Eugene Malone of Redlands, foreman of the grand jury, was named to the committee.

The two other positions will be filled by representatives of law enforcement agencies and the courts.

Mayfield said Tuesday afternoon that police chiefs in the county designated San Bernardino Police Chief B. Warren Cocke as their representative. He added that Roy Chapman, presiding judge of Superior Court, and Theodore Krumm, presiding judge of Municipal Court, selected Superior Court Judge Don Turner to represent the bench.

County Counsel Alan Marks and Martin Nelson, assistant administrative officer for personnel, will serve as advisers.

Supervisor Dennis Hansberger dissented, and Mayfield had to fend off concerns he and David McKenna, elected as Hansberger's replacement, raised.

At one point, Mayfield commented, "I feel like a basketball player who's trying to make a lay-up with a basketball that's being deflated.

"This was (Supervisor Robert) Townsend's idea," he said to laughter of other county officials in the room.

McKenna said the selection of district attorney may be the most important the board makes during his term. He opposed the committee structure, suggesting he, another supervisor and bar association representatives make the initial review.

"The more directly we as a board stay with the decision, the better off we are," he commented.

Mayfield said supervisors on a committee would be subject to lobbying pressure, but McKenna responded that the board would receive pressure in any event.

Mayfield expressed concern that private attorneys on a committee might be more "concerned about defendants than victims."

Hansberger — who suggested the leading candidate should have the "stealth and cunning of Sherlock Holmes and the legal competency of Perry Mason" — also wanted a stronger role for the board.

As elected officials, the supervisors are more representative of the public than any five citizens they select to the committee, he said, adding that those selections seem intended to "dissipate the heat."

He suggested a review by five professionals — to include attorneys, judges and law-enforcement officials — without ranking of the candidates.

Supervisor Cal McElwain had misgivings earlier about the size and composition of the committee, but voiced support for the structure on Tuesday.

"Sometimes the community makes better decisions than our legal beagles," he said.

Supervisor Bob Hammock said that without committee advice he would not be in a position to make a decision.

Mayfield said his office has received seven or eight applications so far, but many more inquiries.

He hoped to have the committee appointed on Monday.

Desert still booming in building

San Bernardino County's desert areas remained the strongest area for building activity during October, the Building and Safety Department reports.

In the North Desert (Victor Valley and Barstow vicinity) unincorporated areas, 384 permits for new construction were issued, while in the South Desert (the Morongo Basin), 135 permits were issued.

The department reports a total of 1,061 new permits were issued during October for construction values of $37.1 million.

The department has issued a total of 8,812 permits in the county's unincorporated areas since January of this year. The values to date are $309.8 million. Last year during the same time frame the county issued 12,134 permits for a construction value of $429.9 million.

The activity for October was overall slightly lower than September when 1,076 permits for new construction were issued.

The East Valley building office at Yucaipa was the second busiest in the county where 177 permits were issued for a value of $3.9 million. Over half the permits issued were for alterations to existing dwellings.

By office, the breakdown is as follows:

Ontario, serving the West End area: 92 permits for a value of $2.1 million;

Yucaipa, serving the East Valley, 177 permits for a value of $319 million;

Twin Peaks, serving the western portion of the San Bernardino Mountain communities, 140 permits for a value of $5.6 million;

Big Bear Lake, serving the eastern end of the mountains, 133 permits for a value of $4.2 million;

Victorville, serving the North Desert, 384 for a value of $18.3 million;

Yucca Valley, serving the Morongo Basin, 135 permits for a value of $2.8 million.

Holiday party

A slide program holiday party will be held at the Upland Public Library, 450 N. Euclid Ave., Upland, at 2 p.m. on Dec. 3.

The slides will be on Israel and Greece and will be followed by refreshments. Milton Myers, Chaffey College counselor, will show scenes of a tour he and his wife took in 1978.

The public is invited to attend this free program in the Multipurpose Room on the lower level.

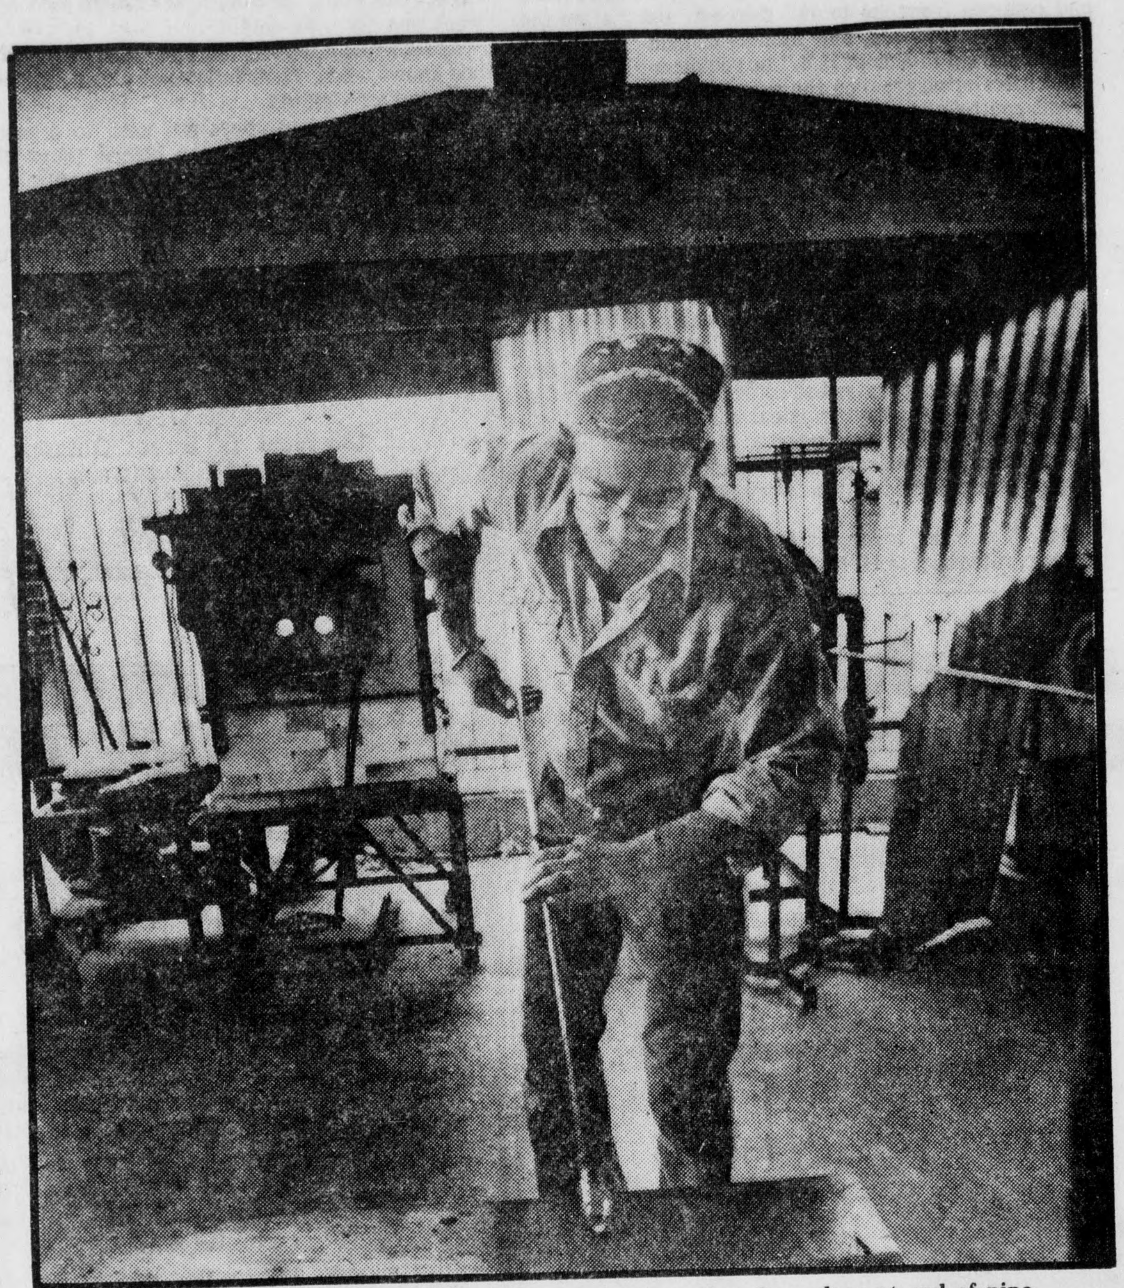
The glass blower



Glassblower Rhys Williams starts with a tiny piece of molten glass at end of pipe.

Glass is more than just a business, it's a way of life to Rhys Williams, operator of Cactus Glassworks in Claremont.

A glassblower for the last 12 years, he teaches the art at Pitzer College.

A stickler for quality, Williams likes to control every phase of his craft; he makes his own glass from scratch and made all his own equipment including the furnaces.

"Anyone can be taught the steps involved in blowing glass, but the art comes in being able to see the unique spacial relationships and then create it," he said.

Molten glass, much like a thick, glowing liquid, takes on the movements of the artist, he said. Creation of fine glasswork demands smooth, flowing movements from the craftsman

It's not an art for those who can't work straight through a project. Glass, to be kept pliable during the shaping, must be kept between 1,900 and 2,200 degrees, demanding constant attention.

The glass is formed in a 2,400-degree furnace, then dipped out at the end of a 5-foot long steel "blowpipe."

Bit-by-bit, little-by-little, the blob of molten glass is prepared at the end of the pipe as Williams patiently shapes it with steel and wooden hand tools. It is during this stage that color patterns can be added to the molten mixture

The hot glass cools gradually as he works, losing much heat as he smooths it with wet newspapers. To keep it pliable, it must periodically be reheated in the furnace.

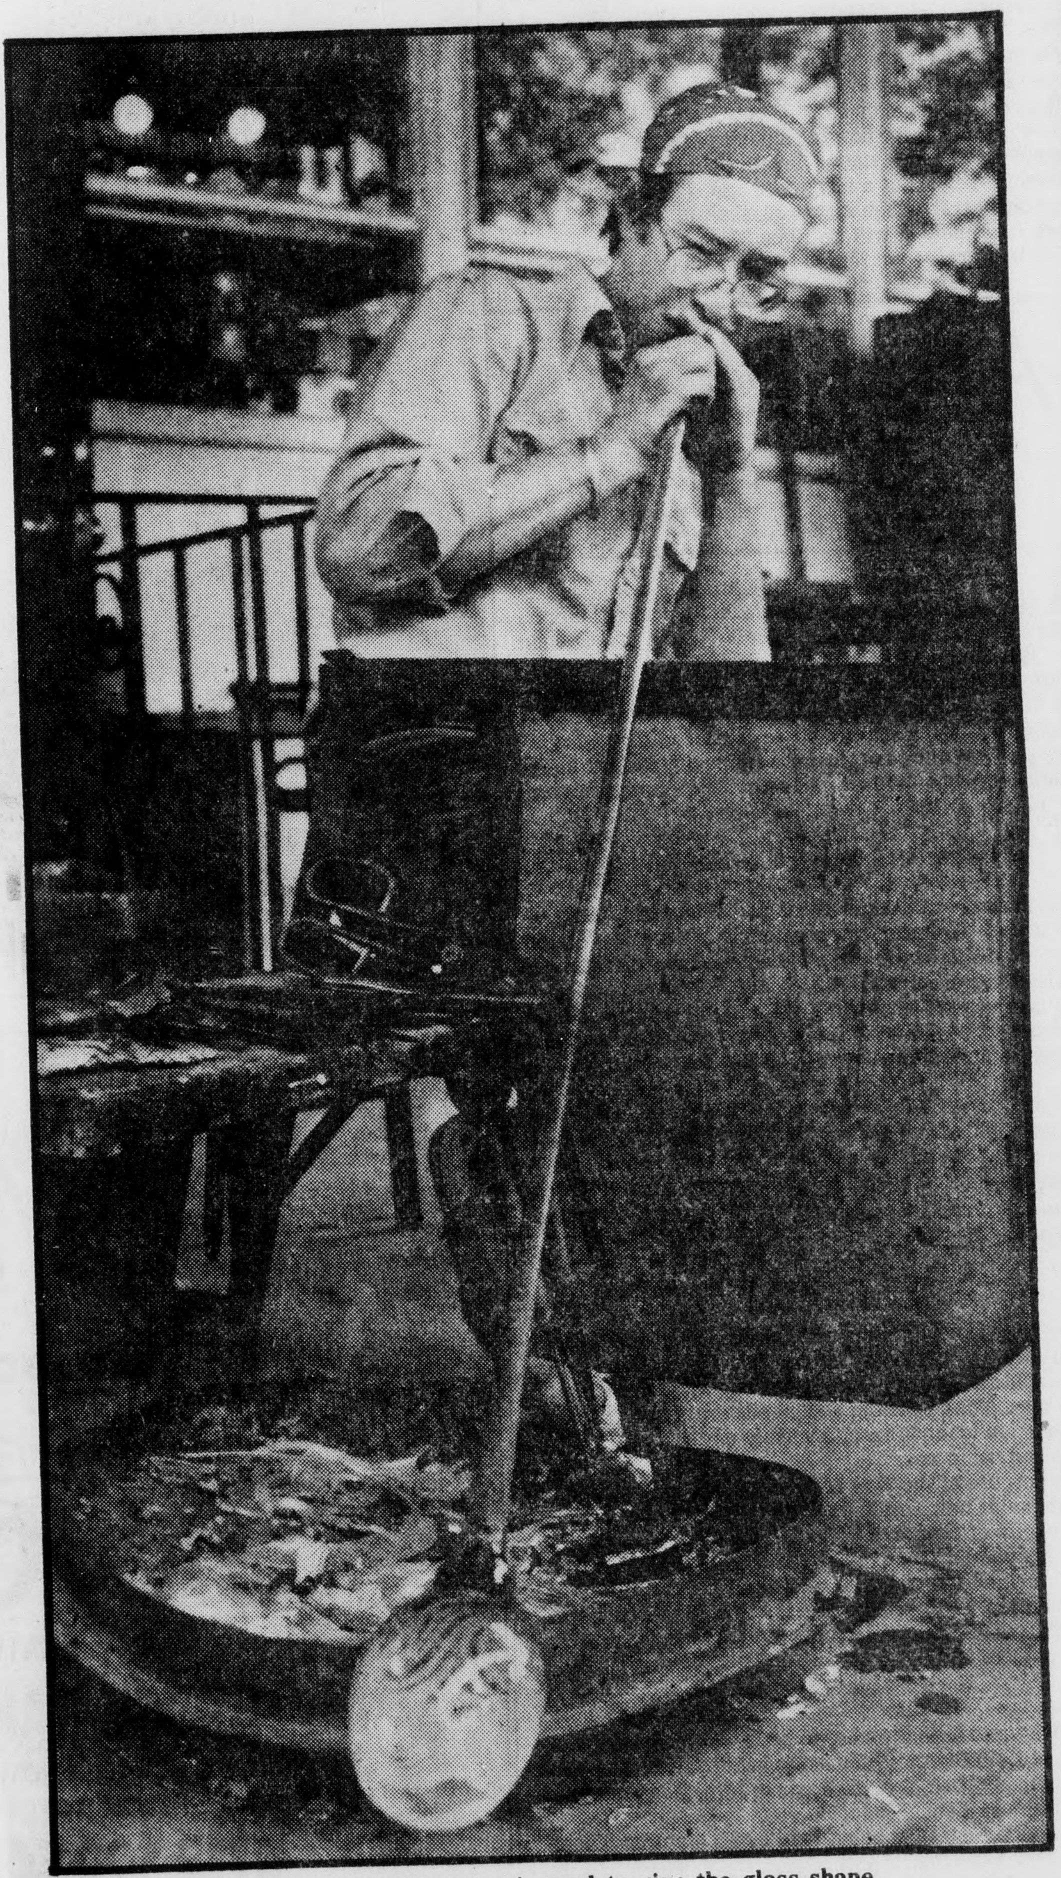
The glassblower must constantly rotate the blowpipe and molten glass or the pull of gravity will soon ruin the balance of his sculpture.

Finally, the sculpture blossoms as he blows into the pipe and inflates the blob.

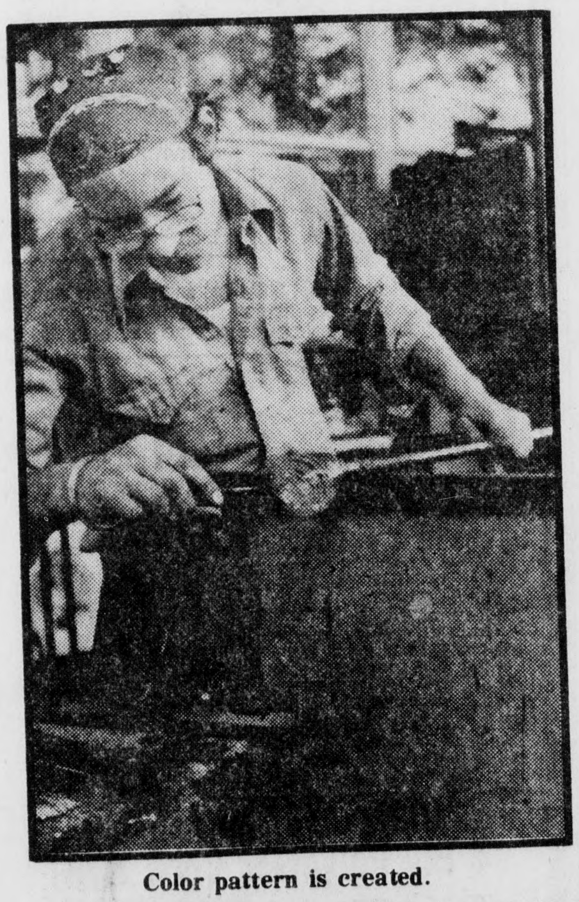
His work is not ended, however. He must still trim his sculpture, shape the openings, sever it from the pipe and prepare a base at the bottom.

At last the sculpture is ready for the final step: annealing. During this stage it takes 14 hours for the finished product, in this case a bowl, to cool.

It must be reheated several times.



A five-foot-long blowpipe is used to give the glass shape.



Color pattern is created.

Wet newspaper helps smooth it.

The final product: more than a bowl, it's art.

Inflation chase: Souls mortgaged for tangibles that will hold value

By DONALD C. BAUDER
Copley News Service

If you have ever doubted for even one minute that the real estate binge of the last six years represents an inflation hedge, consider a recent experience in California's Orange County.

Alarmed that housing prices are beyond the incomes of 90 percent of the residents, Orange County governments have been scrambling to come up with government-subsidized "affordable" housing.

Recently, a big condominium complex went on the market: Some of the homes, prices between $40,000 and $50,000, were government-subsidized. The others in the complex — quite similar to the subsidized ones — sold for around $60,000 to $70,000.

But there was a hitch: If you bought one of the $40,000 homes, you had to agree not to sell it for more than a 10 to 12 percent profit in any given year.

That provision came at the insistence of the federal government, which had provided part of the subsidy. Fearing that people would buy the homes at the artificially low prices and dump them immediately for a huge profit, it tied the annual rate of price increase to the annual percentage gain in personal income — or 10 to 12 percent a year, less than recent rates of inflation.

By contrast, of course, the $60,000 homes had no such restrictions, people could sell them at any time for whatever price they could get.

What do you suppose happened? The $60,000-$70,000 homes sold out in one day. But it took weeks to sell the subsidized ones, even though they offered much better value. Many buyers snapped them up — but when they read in the fine print that they were restricted in selling them, they pulled out of the deal.

It is clear proof that people will mortgage their souls today to get something tangible that will hold value-to get on that first rung of the equity ladder.

It is the same reason people buy gold, commodities, stamps and other tangibles — money's value is being destroyed by the politicians. So why hold on to it? Borrow, speculate, buy "things." The sentence, "It's only money," becomes more poignant every day.

This phenomenon in turn helps describe another phenomenon which some analysts find enigmatic. This is the ever-up-creeping interest rate "barrier" — that level of interest rates which stops people dead in their tracks.

Now, people in the housing industry are saying that "14 percent is the resistance level. People won't pay 14 percent." Yeah, but a few years ago, 7 percent was the absolute barrier, then it was 10, then 12, then 13. A few years from now it will be 19 or 20.

Each barrier is only temporary. As people's expectations of future inflation rise, the barrier breaks down. Our current inflationary swamp shows that people will pay any rate of interest if they feel that inflation the following year will be greater — and in fact, inflation doesn't even have to be higher than interest rates, because much of interest payments can be written off on income taxes.

The experience of Santa Ana's Walker and Lee is instructive. It does more volume than any other firm marketing both new and used homes in Southern California.

In an interview, Stephen De Marco, market research director, explained that the company expects another major sales slump in the next couple of months, in large part because of the current 14 percent "barrier."

In April of this year, after the Federal Reserve clamped on its credit restrictions and interest rates soared to the 16-18 percent level, sales at new home tracts plunged to 29 a week — 80 percent or so below normal volume.

Traffic (number of home shoppers) plummeted, too and the conversion ratio — jokingly called the "kill ratio" — or number of sales per visits from shoppers, soared to 1 to 71. Normal is about 1 to 30.

The firm had gone through a similar slump in October of 1979 — following an earlier tightening move by the government and Federal Reserve — when interest rates had bounced from 9.5 to 13.5 percent. But "after the Super Bowl, following four months of pent-up demand, people started to accept 13.5," he recalled. There was a brief sales upsurge, then the government's mid-March credit controls — and then the horrendous slump.

During both slump periods (late 1979 and spring 1980), "We actually reached the point where cancellations exceeded sales," De Marco recalled. "When people found out what their monthly payment would be, they canceled."

Following the utterly disastrous April, sales picked up in May, and briskly in June, July, August and September. (In fact, Walker and Lee's sales in each one of those months topped the same month of 1979).

Of course, interest rates had dropped because of the recession. Mortgage rates had come down well below the earlier 13.5 percent psychological barrier.

"We felt that the fourth quarter of 1980 would be the best quarter in the real estate industry's history if mortgage rates would stay between 11.5 and 13," said De Marco.

Alas, it was not to be. As the economy appeared to recover, rates shot to 14. It will prove to be a barrier this year, he predicts. "We don't have the figures yet, but we expect cancellations. We might even go back to that 29 a week number," he said.

At some point, the 14 "barrier" will be pierced, but no one knows when. Their inflationary expectations simply have to be re-ignited.

"Eventually, consumers get used to a new, higher level. But there is always a hiccup (huge slump) in between," he said. "The cutoff level was 10 in the middle of 1975, later, it moved to 12," he said. "Each time, people said, 'People will never pay over 10, or they'll never pay over 12.' They should never use that word 'never.'"

'Buddy' Russell of Claremont

Scouting became her life

By MARGE GROSS
Staff Writer

"Girl Scouting became my life," Beatrice Price Russell of Claremont said over the tea cups in her Claremont home. "I owe an unpayable debt to Girl Scouts."

Born and raised in New York City, Mrs. Russell was the only child in a "broken family." She lived with her grandmother and at an early age, she joined a Girl Scout troop.

Throughout her lifetime, no matter where she was, Mrs. Russell became involved in the scouting program.

Beatrice Price Russell is known to one and all as "Buddy."

"When I went to camp in 1921, everyone had a nickname," she said. "My friends tried to find one for me ... Bea, Betty, Trixie ... but nothing fit. They were about to give up when a little girl said, 'Buddy because she's everybody's friend. It has stuck my whole life."

Mrs. Russell has had many experiences in her scouting career.

During World War I, she was asked to represent the Girl Scouts as an aide-d'camp to Gen. Pershing at a "big thing in the Hippadrome." She also was chosen to be an escort and Girl Scout spokesman when Marshall Foch of France came to New York.

All during her high school and college years, Mrs. Russell said she had Girl Scout troops. Her scouting took her into the Greenwich Village area and into the homes of those of many nationalities and skin color.

"I ate more spaghetti in homes during those years," she laughed. She had troops in synagogues, churches and settlement houses.

A hygiene and physical education major, Mrs. Russell said that background was of tremendous help in scouting and later as a minister's wife.

"I've lived an ecumenical life," she said, "and I've always been interested in causes."

It was in 1928, when her clergyman husband, the Rev. Galen Russell, was at Union Seminary in New Jersey, "Buddy" Russell "felt the call to go to Harlem."

An Episcopalian, Mrs. Russell went to her bishop to seek his help. "I was sent as a special ambassador to Harlem's St. Phillips Episcopal Church."

Once there, she started Girl Scout troops in St. Phillip's, the Methodist and Baptist churches and taught swimming at the YWCA.

In 1930, Russell was called to the Congregational Church in Chappaqua, N. Y., and his wife started the first Girl Scout troop to be sponsored by the church.

After Galen Jr. was born, Mrs. Russell said, "I went to work to earn money." The job was with the Church Committee for China Relief to raise money for and to educate churches on China. She was with the program for six years and "I raised half a million dollars for China.

Next came her husband's move to Southport, Conn., and Mrs. Russell organized the Southport Girl Scout Troop and became interested in the Church Women United. From there, the Russells went to the Toyko Union Church in Japan. Mrs. Russell, of course, started a Girl Scout troop in the American school.

"Some troop!" she said, "All kinds of wonderful children."

After five years in Japan, the next move took "Buddy's" husband to India with the National Council of Churches to raise money for Hospital Ludhiana. Mrs. Russell went to live with her dear friend, Abbie Clement Jackson, in Louisville, Ky. Their friendship had blossomed after meeting in Church Women United.

Mrs. Russell's husband next took a church near Chicago, but their stay was limited as the congregation objected to their friends of all races, colors and persuasions.

Before they accepted the call to a church in Evanston, Ill., Galen and "Buddy" let it be known "that people of all races and creeds will be coming in and out of our church and home." They were accepted on that basis and spent 14 happy years there. Mrs. Russell continued her work in scouting, YWCA and was president of the North Shore Council and Brotherhood of Man.

Five years ago, the Russells retired to Pilgrim Place.

Weed-eating fish may solve problem

By ROBETT P. STUDER
Copley News Service

RIVERSIDE — It used to take tractors and chains and railroad irons — and an expenditure of hundreds of thousands of dollars in tax revenues — to keep the farm canals of the Coachella Valley in Southern California free of choking weeds.

Without such herculean efforts, these watery arteries which make the difference between life and death for millions of dollars in farm produce, soon would become useless.

The weeds, which can thrive even in the silt of concrete-lined canals, grow as much as four inches a day. Uncontrolled, they could raise the water level in canals four feet by the end of July each year, and stop or even reverse the water flow by August.

Today, however, part of the massive task of controlling these weeds has been taken over by weed-eating fish originating in East Africa and Ethopia, and the Coachella Valley Water District in the desert of Riverside County is saving several hundred thousand dollars — all because of successful research at the University of California at Riverside.

It was there that scientist Fred Legner first proved that African perch, known as "tilapia," can clear canals of their unwanted mass of mosslike weeds that threaten to choke them every summer.

The problem, however, isn't restricted to the 130 miles of canals in the Coachella Valley, Legner points out. It is equally vexing in all 5,000 miles of canals in California's low desert, including the Imperial and Palo Verde valleys. Significantly, the UCR scientist's field trials indicate that the fish could be equally effective in providing weed control in those areas as well.

Unfortunately, he pointed out, the fish are hard to obtain in sufficient quantities to do the whole job, so they have been used so far only in the Coachella area.

The masses of inland canals are vital to California's agricultural economy. They permit cultivation the year around, making the low desert among the most productive farmland in the world. The same factors that make this so, however — the warm climate and constant water supply — also are quite to the taste of the pesky weeds. In one recent year, for instance, the Imperial Valley Water District, encompassing more than 80 percent of the canals, spent $800,000 on canal cleanout by traditional methods.

On the other hand, Keith Ainsworth, assistant manager of the Coachella Valley Water District, pointed out, "Since we started using the fish two years ago, we haven't had to do a mechanical cleanout. We used to drag-line each canal a couple of times a year."

To which Legner added: "As a system gets older, the weed problem gets worse. The Palo Verde district, for example, used to clean its canals every two years. Then in 1978 it increased to once a year, and now twice a year, perhaps more often in the future."

Legner was the first to demonstrate that tilapia can be used to control weeds in moving water, and he also discovered that they are a gregarious fish which "tends to remain in one place in spite of water currents."

The fish, he said, are purchased from an Idaho fish hatchery.

These handy weed-chompers also can control mosquitoes and midges, Legner added, first by eating them and then by eliminating the weeds that form, the stagnant pools in which they like to breed.

Domestic sources of the fish, however, are unable currently to provide enough of them to move operations to the Imperial canal system, Legner said.

Because they die off in winter temperatures, it is necessary to restock the canals each spring.

"The Imperial canals are like arteries," he explained. "The farmers need an extremely dependable flow of water. They cannot afford to lose even a day's irrigation. It would mean a loss of millions of dollars in crops. To use the fish throughout the system, the irrigation district would have to raise them locally," he said.

The canal weed problem is not unique to the low desert. It also is a problem in the San Joaquin Valley. However, Legner pointed out, the fish cannot be used there because early spring temperatures are too low to trigger reproduction.

The Palo Verde Valley district, on the other hand, has a still different kind of problem. The fish are prohibited there by the state Fish and Game Commission which fears they will enter the Colorado River and then occupy the same breeding grounds as some of the desirable game fish and waterfowl.

"After my research began 10 years ago, the Fish and Game Commission banned tilapia anywhere outside the landlocked desert," Legner said. "The commission fears that tilapia would compete with ocean species. Although there isn't any proof of this, when there is any doubt the commission quarantines a species."

Applicants sought for Youth Citizenship Award

Soroptimist International of Ontario is seeking applicants for its Youth Citizenship Award for 1981. The award will be based on the qualities of service, dependability, leadership and a clear sense of purpose.

Applications for the annual award are available from school counselors at Alta Loma, Chaffey, Ontario, Montclair, Mountain, Upland, Valley View and Ontario Christian High Schools. For further information contact Dr. Janet P. Wright, 981-5861.

Local "stars" receive awards

Certificates of Appreciation were awarded by Cucamonga School District Superintendent Chris Arce to students and PTA members who participated in the "Everywhere Show" Nov. 8 on channel 4. The television program featured discussion between parents and students on topics that are considered sensitive such as drugs, sex and death.

Those who participated in the production were PTA members Carol Confer, Walter Hawthorne, Kay Kozar, Joyce Ah You, Gilbert Ontiveros and Alpha Sears. Students who participated were Ashely Confer, Walter Hawthorne, III, Ginalynn Kozar, Jasen Ah You, Diane Ontiveros and Raymond Sears.

Handicapped parking placard

The Department of Motor Vehicles no longer requires people to complete the Application for Parking Placard for Handicapped Person form in the DMV office. The applications will now be accepted by mail.

The Senior Service Center in Claremont, 840 N. Indian Hill Blvd., has forms available for disabled persons who need the validation to park in handicapped zones. To request an application call 624-4531 extension 276.

Driver refresher classes

A trained volunteer teacher will be organizing driver refresher classes for the National Retired Teachers Association and the American Association of Retired People. Courses will consist of two classes with three sections each from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. on two consecutive days. They are geared to compensate for the age-related physical changes of older people.

Anyone 55 years old or over is welcome and encouraged to take this comprehensive review course. For further information contact Elizabeth Huchting, 987-7569.

St. George School to have pancake breakfast

St. George School will have a "Family Pancake Breakfast" Dec. 7 from 7:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the St. George Assembly Hall, D and Palm Streets, Ontario. Pancakes, sausages, orange juice and coffee will be served. Tickets will be sold at the door. For more information call 984-9123.

Junior high parent conference

Alta Loma Junior High School will conduct second trimester scramble sessions for eighth graders Dec. 4 from 12:30 to 3:30 p.m. During that time seventh grade teachers will be available for parent conferences. Any parent wishing to speak to some or all of their child's teachers should contact Mrs. Heuerman at 987-4644 for an appointment.

Trip for seniors planned

The City of Claremont's Senior Service Center is now taking reservations for a trip to Movieland Wax Museum in Buena Park. The bus will leave Memorial Park at 10 a.m. on Dec 5. and will return at 4 p.m. For reservations or information call Ellen Taylor, 624-4531 extension 276.

Blood drive in Rancho Cucamonga

Rancho Cucamonga "Friends of the Library" will sponsor a blood drive Dec. 16 from 4 to 7 p.m. at the library, 9191 Base Line Road. The Blood Bank needs about 200 units of blood daily to meet the needs of area hospitals. The support of donors assures that blood will be available throughout the holiday season.

The "Loops Console," a console containing a variety of percussions timbres built by Ron George, and the "Angklun," an instrument built by Del Roper, will be featured in a demonstration concert in the Cal Poly University Theater Nov. 24 at 8 p.m. A performance and discussion of the loop console will be held at 7 p.m. before the concert.

For ticket information call the Cal Poly music department, 598-4587.

Katuwaan Club to celebrate

The Katuwaan Club of America will meet Saturday at 6 p.m. at Widow Brumm's restaurant in Claremont. The club will hold a party to celebrate the 15th anniversary of members Mr. and Mrs. Miller Hernandez of Ontario. The "Kundiman of Life" is the theme of the event. Caesar M. dela Victoria, club president, will act as master of ceremonies.

Ontario police recruits to graduate

Graduation ceremonies will be held Dec. 5 at 1 p.m. at the Sheriff's Aviation Division in Rialto for the following Ontario Police Department recruits: Farlan Clutters Jr., 21, Francine Huffman, 25, Dave A. Mullican, 26, and Augustine Tejas, 27. The officers will graduate from the 63rd Session of the San Bernardino Sheriff's Academy.

Calendar sales to end soon

The sale of Girl Scout 1981 calendars will conclude Dec. 3. The new calendars depict Southern California Scouts in action. Proceeds from the sale go to individual troops for community service projects, camping expeditions and other Scout activities.

Calendars may be obtained from the Spanish Trails Council, 1550 N. Garey Ave., Pomona, or from Girl Scouts in local neighborhoods.

Special education Camp Fire Clubs

Mt. San Antonio Camp Fire Council has begun a membership drive throughout special education schools in the area. The project is aimed at mainstreaming handicapped children into activities with non-handicapped children. At the same time, Camp Fire hopes to increase the non-handicapped child's awareness of handicapped persons.

Mt. San Antonio Council serves 25 local communities. The main office is located at 951 W. Foothill Blvd., Claremont.

Holiday shopping trip

The Senior Service Center of Claremont is taking reservations for a holiday shopping excursion to Santa Anita Fashion Park in Arcadia on Dec. 12.

The trip is not limited to senior citizens. Call Ellen Taylor, 624-4531 extension 276, to make a reservation or for more information.

Temple Sholom

The biblical reading for next sabbath is Miketz. Kabbalat Shabbat services will be held jointly with Temple Beth Israel of Pomona at 3033 Towne Ave., 8 p.m. The Rededication Sabbath services will honor the founding members of the Pomona Valley Jewish community. Saturday morning services will be held at Temple Sholom at 9 a.m.

First Christ, Scientist

"Thanksgiving" is the subject of the Bible lesson-sermon for the Thanksgiving Day worship service to be held at 10 a.m. at the church, 1429 N. Euclid Ave., Ontario.

Astara

"A Time for Love" will be Randall Phillips' subject Sunday at 11 a.m. the Astara Chapel, 800 W. Arrow Highway, Upland. Phillips was minister of the Wilshire Methodist Church in Los Angeles for 19 years. The service is open to the public.

Immanuel Lutheran

The order of matins will be celebrated at the 10 a.m. service Nov. 30 at the church, 5648 Jefferson, Chino. The Rev. Robert Wolff's message, "It's High Time," will be based on Romans 13:11-14. An object lesson for children will be presented during the service.

Women's Aglow

Women's Aglow Fellowship of Pomona will hold its monthly outreach meeting Friday, Dec. 12, at 9 a.m. at the Mission Family Restaurant, 888 W. Mission Blvd., Pomona. Kathy Palmer will be the guest speaker.

Palmer and her husband Terry had their marriage saved by a Christian counselor and now counsel others. The meeting is charismatic and interdenominational, and the reservation number is 989-5663.

Ontario First Baptist

Donald F. Thomas will be the guest minister at the church this Sunday, preaching at the 10 a.m. worship service. Music at the service will be by the Chancel Choir and by two soloists, George McConnell and Linda Irby. The film "The Other Wise Man" will be shown at the 6 p.m. service.

Echoes of Faith Center

The Rev. Ross Collette will conduct a revival Nov. 30 through Dec. 6 in the recently completed sanctuary at Echos of Faith Christian Center, 11255 Central Ave., Ontario. Collette is president and founder of the World Prayer fellowship in Fresno.

'Physician's Point of View' is title of free seminar

"The Physician's Point of View" is the title of the third program in the industrial medicine series to be presented Dec. 2 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. by Ontario Community Hospital in the hospital Conference Room.

Featured will be John Bailey II, M.D., San Bernardino orthopedic surgeon; Alan S. Rosenthal, D.O., internist with offices in Upland; Daniel S. Gobaud, M.D., orthopedic specialist of Montclair; and Robert Zondervan, M.D., psychiatrist of Upland.

John Packard, hospital administrator, reports that the seminars are presented to provide the industrial employer with the expertise knowledge needed to protect the employee from injuries and to insure that the employee will receive the needed care and concern when they suffer work-related injury.

The seminar is free, and luncheon will be served to those attending. Reservations may be made by calling 984-2201, extension 335.

Previous programs in the series focused on the legal views in an industrial injury and the role of the industrial insurance carrier.

Thanksgiving should occur daily in U.S.

By The REV. KENNETH R. T. GORDON
Montclair Ministerial Association

How strange it is to have only ONE day per year for national thanksgiving! Amid all our complaints, the USA still is the best place in which to live. Here we can complain, if we want, even openly — not so in many other places. How terrible is our inflation rate — but it is a fraction of that in other nations, for example in Argentina! Food costs are outlandish, but our stores are open 24 hours a day and the shelves are jammed with goods of unbelievable variety all available if and when we want. The lines are sometimes long, not to get in to pick up a few rationed items, but to get out with our several shopping carts overflowing!

Some people go to church, some choose not to go. In certain lands you don't have any choice, its one religion or die, friend! We grumble uncontrollably at the cost of gasoline, but have you been on the freeway on a Friday evening lately? Cars, trucks, campers, and boats by the thousands are ammed bumper- to- bumper, headed out just for fun! The biggest question is, "Which vehicle shall we take on this trip?" How strange we have to be reminded one day a year to be thankful for such wealth.

A second thought should be made relative to giving of thanks. It does not seem to come naturally. Children deal in "I- me- mine" and are more possessive than grateful. Such selfishness at any age affects the giver. The less the appreciation, the less likely to be considered with much enthusiasm next time. The greater the gratitude, and the more honestly it is shown, the more generous the giver is likely to become. Certainly we ought to recognize and need to learn to express our profound appreciation to our merciful and gracious God for all the benefits He so lavishly bestows upon the children of men.

And this should be done, not once a year, but daily, yea, we may say "moment by moment." God is not to be blamed if we have misused His gifts. We still need to be unreservedly grateful for the things see and unseen, the things material and spiritual, the blessings of this day and of eternity that He has made so freely and abundantly available to us.

And finally, it is not without significance that Thanksgiving Day comes only a month before Christmas. This way we can properly and with hearts full and running over, thank Him for the most wonderful Gift of all, the coming of Jesus into this world to bring us forgiveness of sins, salvation of soul, and provision for eternity. Thanks, indeed be unto God for all the indescribably good things H has done, just for you and me!

Rev. Gordon is minister at the First Baptist Church of Montclair.

Fellowship applications being taken

Senator Ruben S. Ayala (D-Chino) announced today that applications now are being accepted for the 1981-82 California Senate Fellowship Program.

The program runs from October 1981 through June 1982 with an option to extend up to three additional months. The application deadline is February 1, 1981.

Twelve fulltime, paid fellowships are awarded annually by the Senate Rules Committee.

Successful applicants will be assigned either to the office of a Senate member or to a standing committee.

Duties will include bill analysis, research, and other administrative work as required by the Senate member or chairperson of the committee to which fellows are assigned.

College graduation is required, but applications are also welcome from graduating seniors who will complete undergraduate studies by the commencement of the program.

Senator Ayala said application forms and information brochures are available from his district office at 515 N. Arrowhead Ave., Suite 100, San Bernardino, CA 92401, or 129 North Euclid Ave., Suite A, Ontario CA 91762.

Further information on the program may be obtained from: Senate Fellowship Program, Room 5100, State Capitol, Sacramento, CA 95814, (telephone 916-445-9463 or 916-445-4300).

Exhibition looks at Henriette Wyeth

By RICHARD REILLY
Copley News Service

CHADDS FORD, Pa. — Spending time with artist Henriette Wyeth is like going to the theater.

One experiences a tremendous presence, full of drama and magic, but unmarked by pretense. In an exchange with her, one is inspired to rise to her challenge, and for the moment, one shines brilliantly.

Perhaps it is because Henriette lived in a sort of enchanted princess atmosphere as a child that she is endowed with an extraordinary sensitivity to people, places and situations.

This, along with skill and talent, has allowed Henriette to become one of our foremost portrait and still-life painters. She captures on canvas the innermost qualities of her sitters and grasps the significance and beauty of inanimate objects.

A Henriette Wyeth retrospective is being shown at the Brandywine River Museum in Chadds Ford. The 50 oils-on-canvas paintings and 50-odd years they represent confirm her beauty, stature, spirituality and talent.

They are painted with style and verve, convey a sense of pleasure to the viewer and demonstrate enormous skill.

It is interesting that while the general public recognized the names of other women artists — Georgia O'Keeffe, Louise Nevelson, Isabel Bishop, Helen Frankenthaler and the late Grandma Moses — few have heard of Henriette Wyeth or seen her work.

Many in the art world think that her comparative anonymity is lamentable. but the lady herself says, "I have avoided personal publicity, have no desire to become a celebrity and am grateful for the privacy it has afforded me."

However, another reason probably is that she has been overshadowed by the men in her life: father N.C. Wyeth, brother Andrew, nephew Jamie and husband Peter Hurd. This exhibition should remedy that situation.

Born in Wilmington, Del., almost 73 years ago (her birthday is Oct. 22), Henriette studied at a Montessori school, at the Normal Arts School in Boston, at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts and also "worked with Pa several hours each day."

She is an associate of the National Academy, but has never had the time or inclination to "get around to the final steps necessary to qualify for full membership." (She's been too busy being a wife, mother, grandmother, hostess, full-time confidante for family and friends and painter.)

Henriette was her father's first student, starting at 11, and she learned all the disciplines necessary for good work. Like her father, Henriette is dedicated to the notion that art and life are inextricably linked. And in viewing this exhibition, it is apparent that Henriette's early years have provided her with an enormous reservoir of images and impressions that are repeated continually in her work.

As a child, Henriette lived in a storybook world (the house was full of costumes and props used in her father's paintings) and many of her pictures transport one to enchanted places where gazelles peer safely from fields of flowers and where butterflies are never mounted and placed behind glass, but fly freely.

Her canvases are quiet dramas and she compares some of her still-life arrangements to Mozart compositions. "A great many people seem to think it's sweet music. It isn't. It's the bare, lovely, delicate bones of feeling. Utterly Gothic. It builds in bone lace."

The earliest pictures in the exhibition, both executed in 1923, are a still life titled "The Blue Cup," a composition of an opaque stoneware pitcher with contrasting delicate china plate and cup, and a portrait of "Old Albert," a strong character, tough, but also flexible, someone who will endure.

These yin and yang characteristics, a blending of emotion and intellect, fragility and toughness, are evident in most of Henriette's work.

The human race is the only race Henriette knows, and although she has painted the famous and the anonymous, it is the movers and shakers who gravitate to her. Among the portraits of well - known personalities exhibited, one will find a 1925 oil of composer Richard Rodgers, a 1953 portrait of the poet Witter Bynner and a 1978 portrait of actress Helen Hayes.

Just as important to Henriette, however, are portraits of lesser-known personalities, among them a 1953 oil of "Dona Nestorita," painted when that great lady was more than 90 years old. "Doo Doo and the Orchids" features a young black man in a straight-backed chair wearing a blue dungaree shirt, holding in his hands an arrangement of lavender and white orchids. "Marie and the Red Geranium" shows a young black woman in a similar pose, her shoulders covered with a multicolored shawl, her hands holding a single red geranium.

Family members painted by Henriette included a 1937 portrait of her father, a superlative picture of her son, "Young Peter at San Patricio" (1938), portraits of her two grandsons "Pedrito" and "David," the latter pale, blond, introspective, and the former bold, assured, and a 1972 portrait of her husband, Peter.

Henriette's still lifes are varied — everything from pumpkins, squash and broccoli leaves to masks, music boxes, arrangements of flowers, a nest of eggs, feathers, shells, birds, stoneware, porcelain and china. All are painted in fluid, lucid strokes.

Device helps keep drunks off the road

By ROBERT P. STUDER
Copley News Service

SACRAMENTO — The drunk comes staggering out of the bar and climbs behind the wheel of his car. He sits there for a minute, fiddling with the steering wheel, moving it back and forth as he watches a needle on a dial.

He swears in bleary-eyed exasperation and turns on the ignition, jamming the car in gear and backing angrily out of the parking space. But his trip is far from uneventful. He's dogged all the way by the flashing of his emergency lights and the blaring of his horn — beep ... beep ... beep — once every second. His passage can be heard long after he has swerved around the corner and disappeared.

Meanwhile, other motorists on the street are giving the apparition coming toward them wide berth. And it isn't long before a squad car pulls alongside and waves the fuzzy-brained fellow from the bar over to the curb.

No lives have been lost, no innocent victims maimed. Only a new peck of trouble for the fellow in the car with the blaring horn. ...

That, if legislation becomes law which so far has found favor in the Assembly, may become a real life scenario in the not-distant future on the streets of Los Angeles.

Applying Space Age technology to the age-old problem of society's drunks — at least to the extent that they endanger others behind the wheel of a car — the legislation calls for installation of a "drunk-o-meter" in the automobiles of 24 individuals in Los Angeles County who have been convicted of a second drunk driving charge. For the purposes of the test, all will be volunteers. They will be offered the alternative of going along with it rather than suffering the more customary consequences of their crime — jail, or suspension of their driver's license, or both.

Thus, as technology attempts to save them from themselves, their civil rights still will be protected.

The "Drunk Driver Warning System" consists of a meter with a centered needle indicator, which is attached to the steering column and connected to electronic sensors and a cassette recorder stored in the trunk of the car.

The meter measures driver performance in the critical task of "tracking" his vehicle. The concept first was developed in the 1960s to test how astronauts would function under adverse conditions of weightlessness and long confinement.

The driver, so goes the scenario, climbs into his car, closes the door and turns on the ignition in the usual way. The seat is adjusted for only his weight, so that no one else can take the test for him.

When the driver with the chronic drinking problem, turns on the ignition, the car's hazard lights begin to flash. To turn them off — and to deactivate the circuit that would automatically turn on the car's horn to blow a loud blast once every second after the vehicle reaches 10 miles an hour — he must pass a dexterity test. He must watch the needle and keep it dead center for a few seconds by gently and rapidly turning the steering wheel to the left and right.

If he can satisfy the machine that he is sober, it'll let him drive in peace. Otherwise, his car will beep and flash the news of his condition to the world.

Supposedly, keeping the needle centered in the dial is easy — if you are sober. Still, candidates for the test would be required to practice it 300 times to make sure they have achieved the necessary proficiency. And, because some are more adept than others, the equipment is adjusted to reflect the individual's personal sober-level skill.

The legislation, AB 3482, by Assemblyman Herschel Rosenthal, D-Los Angeles, would authorize Los Angeles County courts to allow 24 second-offense drunken drivers to participate in such a program operated by Systems Technology Inc., of Hawthorne, under a $450,000 contract with the U.S. Department of Transportation's National Highway Traffic Safety Administration. The measure has already been approved by the Assembly Criminal Justice Committee.

Systems Technology, which has 10 1978 Chevrolets equipped with the Drunk Driver Warning Systems owned by the Department of Transportation, demonstrated to legislators that the drunk-o-meter would give the suspect driver four chances to pass the test — because "even a trained, sober person can fail."

After four failures, however, the driver must wait 10 minutes before the equipment will let him try it again.

The words "Bid: Select System Project No. 119" shall appear on the envelope of each sealed bid and each envelope shall be addressed to the City Clerk, City Hall, Montclair, California. The proposals will be publicly opened and read in the Council Chambers, 5111 Benito Street, Montclair, California, at 10:00 a.m. on the date above mentioned.

DESCRIPTION OF WORK: The work consists of providing and installing bridge deck joint seals, coring concrete, installing concrete diaphragm bolsters, installing restrainer assembly units and shear bolts and grout patch repair work and such other items or details not mentioned that are required by the plans and specifications. Bids are required for the entire work described herein.

COMPLETION OF WORK: All work shall be completed within thirty-five (35) working days after the date of the execution of the contract by the City.

OBTAINING CONTRACT DOCUMENTS: Plans and specifications and all contract documents may be obtained at the office of the City Engineer, City Hall, 5111 Benito Street, Montclair, California. A payment of $10.00 is required for each set of specifications with accompanying drawings. This fee will be refunded if plans and specifications are returned in good condition. The specification is entitled "SELECT SYSTEM PROJECT NO. 119 - SPECIFICATIONS FOR THE SEISMIC RESTRAINER AND JOINT SEAL INSTALLATION."

(Public Notice Continued)

PROPOSAL GUARANTEE: Each proposal must be accompanied by cash or by a cashier's or certified check or by a bid bond in the amount of ten percent (10%) of the amount of the bid price, made payable to the order of the City Clerk of the City of Montclair, as a guarantee that the bidder, if the award is made to him in accordance with the terms of his proposal, will promptly execute a contract in the required form, secure payment of workmen's compensation insurance, and furnish a satisfactory faithful performance bond and a labor and material bond.

The faithful performance bond shall be in the sum of not less than one hundred percent (100%) of the estimated aggregate amount of the payments to be made under the contract, computed on the basis of the prices stated in the proposal. The labor and material bond shall be in the sum of not less than fifty percent (50%) of the estimated aggregate amount of the payments to be made under the contract, computed on the basis of the prices stated in the proposal. In addition to the above and if requested by the City, the bidder shall furnish a financial statement of recent date. Failure to comply with this requirement will render a bid informal and shall be sufficient cause for rejection.

WAGE RATES: Bids shall be made in accordance with the prevailing hourly rate of per diem wages for this locality and project as determined by the Director of Industrial Relations pursuant to Labor Code Section 1170 et seq., a copy of which is on file with the City Engineer at 5111 Benito Street in accordance with the provisions of Labor Code Section 1773.2 which prevailing hourly rate of wages is made a part of this notice by reference as though fully set forth herein.

If the project requires employment of workers in any apprenticeable craft or trade, once awarded, the contractors or subcontractors must apply to the joint apprenticeship council unless already covered by local apprentice standards (Labor Code Section 1777.5).

Owner's rights reserved: The City Council of the City of Montclair reserves the right to reject any and all bids, to waive any informality in a bid, and to make awards as the interest of the City may require. This notice is given by order of the Council of the City of Montclair, California.

ORDINANCE NO. 1247

ORDINANCE OF THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF UPLAND AMENDING ARTICLE VIII OF THE UPLAND MUNICIPAL CODE - BUILDING REGULATIONS

The City Council of the City of Upland does hereby ordain as follows:

Section I —The Title and Index of Article VIII is hereby amended to read as follows:

ARTICLE VIII
BUILDING REGULATIONS

Part I. Building Code, Chs. 8101-8107
Part II. Water Fund Additive, Ch. 8108
Part III. House Numbering, Ch. 8109
Part IV. Grading Regulations, Ch. 8110

Section II —Building Code sections and titles of Article VIII are hereby renumbered, and retitled and certain sections amended as follows:

Renumber and retitle Chapter I "Building Code", to read:

Part I — BUILDING CODE

Chapter 8101 — Building Code

Delete Sec. 8000 — "General Regulations," in its entirety and add a new section 8101.010

Sec. 8101.010. Intent and purpose. The purpose of these regulations is to provide minimum standards to safeguard life or limb, health, property, and public welfare by regulating and controlling the design, construction, quality of materials use and occupancy, location and maintenance of all buildings and structures within the City of Upland and certain equipment specifically regulated herein.

Renumber Sec 8000.1 — "Appeals Board", to read:

Sec. 8101.020. Appeals Board.

Delete Sec. 8000.2 — "Violations and Penalties", in its entirety and add new Section 8101.030 to read:

Sec. 8101.030. Violations and penalties. Any person, firm, or corporation violating any of the provisions of this Code, or failing to obey any lawful order of a duly authorized representative of the building department, shall be deemed guilty of an infraction as set forth in section 1200 of the Upland Municipal Code, and, shall be subject to penalties as provided therein.

Sec. 8101.031. Reinspection fees. Where work for which a permit is required by this Code is started or proceeded with prior to obtaining said permit, the fees specified herein shall be doubled except that in the case of four (4) or more such violations by the same violator, said fee shall be ten (10) times the fee specified. The additional cost shall not relieve any persons from fully complying with the requirements of this code in the execution of the work nor from any other penalties prescribed herein.

Delete Sec. 8000.3 — "Zoning", in its entirety and add new section 8101.040 to read:

Sec. 8101.040. Zoning. Whenever any requirement specified in these building regulations is in conflict with the zoning regulations contained in the Upland Municipal Code, that which is the most restrictive shall apply.

8101.041. Mechanical equipment. No comfort cooling, heating, or other mechanical equipment shall be permitted in any required front or sideyard setback areas unless approved by the Building Official.

Add Section 8101.050 to read:

Sec. 8101.050. Special fire zone — building materials. That portion of the City of Upland within the north, east, and west city limits, and bounded on the south by the north right-of-way line of proposed Route 30 (foothill Freeway) as shown on the Circulation Element of the Upland General Plan, is hereby declared a special fire zone by reason of its proximity to adjacent, high hazard, brush fire areas. All structures hereafter erected, altered, added to, or repaired within said special fire zone shall conform to the requirements of this section.

8101.051. Applicability. When new structures are erected the entire building shall comply with this section. Where additions, alterations, or repairs are made, only the new portion shall be made to comply.

.010 Exterior walls. The exterior surface of all exterior walls shall be protected with materials as required by the Uniform Building Code for one-hour fire-resistive construction.

.020 Roofs. All roofs covering shall be a minimum Class B as set forth in Chapter 32 of the Uniform Building Code and U.B.C. Standards 32-7.

Sec. 8101.060 Factory-built Housing.

Renumber Sec. 8000.4, paragraph (a) "Definition", to read:

8101.061 Definition.

Renumber Sec. 8000.4, paragraph (b) "Acceptance", to read:

8101.062 Acceptance.

Renumber Sec. 8000.4, paragraph (c) "Permits and Fees", to read:

8101.063. Permits and fees.

Renumber Sec. 8000.4, paragraph (d) "Plans and Specifications", to read:

81018.064. Plans and specifications.

Renumber Sec. 8000.5, "Restrictions on Issuing New Building Permits", to read:

Sec. 8101.070. Restrictions on issuing new building permits.

Delete Sec. 8100 "Uniform Building Code — Filing and Adoption", in its entirety and add chapter 8102 to read as follows:

CHAPTER 8102 — UNIFORM BUILDING CODE, FILING AND ADOPTION.

That certain code designated as the, "Uniform Building Code, 1979 Edition", including the Appendix thereto excepting Chapters A-51 and A-53 and the, "Uniform Building Code Standards, 1979 Edition", as published by the International Conference of Building Officials, three (3) copies of which are on file in the office of the city clerk, as hereby adopted by reference and shall henceforth be referred to as the building code for the City of Upland, subject to all amendments, additions and deletions as set forth in this chapter.

Delete Sec. 8100.1 "Same - Amendments", in its entirety and add new Section 8102.010 to read as follows:

Sec. 8102.010. Amendments to the Uniform Building Code. The following sections of the Uniform Building Code, 1979 Edition, shall be and the same are hereby amended as follows:

8102.011. Section 301 (b) 5 shall be amended to change, "4 feet", to, "3 feet".

8102.012. Section 301 (b) 11 shall be deleted in its entirety.

8102.013. Section 304 Fees. All permit fees and plan review fees as set forth in this code shall mean those fees as set forth in the fee schedule as adopted from time-to-time by resolution of the Upland City Council, copy of which is to be on file in the building department.

8102.014. TABLE NO. 3-A BUILDING PERMIT FEES is hereby deleted in its entirety.

8102.015. Grading. It is expressly determined by the Upland City Council that it is necessary to revise Chapter 70 of the Uniform Building Code Appendix (Excavation and Grading) in that the City lies almost entirely upon a grade of more than 4% and the soil is extremely rocky, making it very difficult to grade in some instances. Chapter 70 of the Appendix is amended as set forth in Chapter 8110 of this Code.

Delete Chapter 2. "MECHANICAL CODE" in its entirety and add a new chapter to read as follows:

CHATPER 8103 — UNIFORM MECHANICAL CODE, FILING AND ADOPTION.

That certain code designated as the, "Uniform Mechanical Code, 1979 Edition", published by the International Conference of Building Officials, together with its Appendix and Uniform Mechanical Code Standards, three (3) copies of which are on file in the office of the city clerk, is hereby adopted by reference and shall henceforth be referred to as the mechanical code for the City of Upland, subject to all amendments, additions, and deletions as set forth in this Chapter.

Delete Chapter 3, "HOUSING CODE", in its entirety and add a new chapter 8104 to read as follows:

CHAPTER 8104 — UNIFORM HOUSING CODE, FILING AND ADOPTION.

That certain code designated as the, "Uniform Housing Code, 1979 Edition", as published by the International Conference of Building Officials, and all Appendices thereto, three (3) copies of which are on file in the office of the city clerk, is hereby adopted by reference and shall henceforth be referred to as the housing code for the City of Upland, subject to all amendments, additions, and deletions as set forth in this chapter.

Delete Chapter 5. "REPAIR, VACATION OR DEMOLITION OF DANGEROUS BUILDINGS", in its entirety and add a new chapter 8105 to read as follows:

CHAPTER 8105 — UNIFORM CODE FOR THE ABATEMENT OF DANGEROUS BUILDINGS, FILING AND ADOPTION.

That certain code designated as the, "Uniform Code for the abatement of Dangerous Buildings, 1979 Edition", as published by the International Conference of Building Officials, three (3) copies of which are on file in the office of the city clerk, is hereby adopted by reference and shall henceforth be referred to as the dangerous building code for the City of Upland, subject to all amendments, additions, and deletions as set forth in this chapter.

Delete CHAPTER 6. "PLUMBING REGULATIONS", in its entirety and add a new chapter 8106 to read as follows:

CHAPTER 8106 — UNIFORM PLUMBING CODE, FILING AND ADOPTION.

That certain code designated as the, "Uniform Plumbing Code, 1979 Edition", as published by the International Association of Plumbing and Mechanical Officials, together with it's Appendices, three (3) copies of which are on file in the office of the city clerk, is hereby adopted by reference and shall henceforth be referred to as the plumbing code for the City of Upland, subject to all amendments, additions, and, deletions as set forth in this chapter.

Sec. 8106.010 — Amendments to the Uniform Plumbing Code. The following sections of the Uniform Plumbing Code, 1979 Edition, shall be and the same are hereby amended as follows:

8106.011. Section 20.7 is amended by deleting the Schedule of Fees. All plumbing fees shall be those as adopted by resolution of the Uland City Council per Sec. 8102.013 of this code.

8106.012. Section 409 — Drainage Below Curb and Also Below Main Sewer Level is amended by revising Sub-section (a) to read as follows:

Drainage piping serving fixtures that are at an elevation lower than the top of the first manhole upstream from the point of connection with the public sewer, or drainage piping serving fixtures, the flood level rims of which are located below the elevation of the curb or property line at the point where the building sewer crosses under the curb or property line and above the crown level of the main sewer, shall drain by gravity into the main sewer and shall be protected from backflow of sewage by installing an approved type backwater valve, and each such backwater valve shall be installed only in that branch or section of the drainage system which receives the discharge from fixtures located as noted above.

8106.013. Section 910 — "Plumbing Fixtures Required", is amended to read as follows:

.010 Each building shall be provided with sanitary facilities as prescribed in Appendix C of this code.

.020 Within each building and within each separate, independently occupied and managed part or division thereof, of all occupancies A through H inclusive except single - family units, there shall be provided in separate rooms a minimum of one water closet and one lavatory for each sex plus one urinal for each men's room.

.030 Where it can be definitely established to the satisfaction of the administrative authority that there will be not more than six (6) male persons using such urinal in the same twenty-four (24) hour period, the requirement for a urinal may be waived provided there is installed, in lieu thereof, an extended lip, elongated bowl equipped with a self-rising seat. Provided further, that where the urinal is eliminated, the owner of the property shall furnish a letter stating that whenever the number of male users of said facilities exceeds six (6), a urinal will be installed.

8106.014. Appendix G — "Swimming Pools", is hereby amended as follows:

.010 Subsection 2 of Appendix G is deleted.

Subsection 11 of Appendix G is added to read as follows:

.020 All swimming pools shall be entirely enclosed by buildings, or by fences, or walls not less than five (5) nor more than six (6) feet in height. All such enclosures shall be so constructed as to prohibit the penetrations of a solid object which measures four (4) inches in its least dimension. Hotels and motels offering a swimming pool as an accommodation to their guests shall be exempt from the above enclosure requiement so long as they provide twenty-four hour surveillance of the entire area of the pool, constantly monitored by video viewer screen and an alarm system covering the entire area of the pool, constantly monitored by an on-duty employee required to be awake during the entire monitoring period. The operation of the surveillance system and monitoring shall be subject to inspection at any time by the city and in event that the city manager at any time finds that the surveillance and monitoring required fails to meet the standards set forth herein for the exemption, this exemption shall be withdrawn upon a ten-day written notice and the enclosure required shall be constructed.

.030 Other than doors from a residential occupancy, all doors and/or gates opening directly into the pool area shall be equipped with a self-closing, self-latching device designed to keep said door or gate securely closed at all times when not in use. Said latching device shall be located not less than four (4) feet above the adjoining ground level, walks or steps. A gate which serves a driveway shall not qualify as meeting the requirements of a self-closing gate. In no case shall any gate have a width greater than four (4) feet unless specifically approved by the administrative authority.

.040 Doors, gates, latches, and all other portions of the above enclosures shall be maintained in good condition and shall at all times provide the protection for which they are intended.

.050 During the course of construction, a swimming pool shall not be filled with water until such time as final inspection has been made and work approved by the building department. Said final inspection shall not be called for until all enclosures have been provided, all electrical and plumbing work has been completed, and pool construction is complete except for finish plastering. No pool shall receive a finish coat of plaster until the above inspection has been made.

Delete CHAPTER 7. "UNIFORM WIRING CODE", in its entirety and add a new chapter 8107 to read as follows:

CHAPTER 8107 — NATIONAL ELECTRICAL CODE, FILING AND ADOPTION.

The certain code designated as the, "National Electrical Code, 1978 Edition", including the Appendix and Supplements, thereto, three (3) copies of which are on file in the office of the City Clerk, are hereby adopted by reference and shall henceforth be referred to as the electrical code for the city of Upland, subject to all amendments, additions and deletions as set forth in this chapter.

Sec. 8107.010. Administration. The chief building official of the City of Upland shall be referred to in this code as the enforcing official.

8107.011. Duties of the enforcing official. It shall be the duty of the enforcing official to enforce all provisions of this code. He shall, upon application grant permits for the installation or alteration of electrical wiring, devices, appliances and equipment. He shall make inspections and reinspections of the installation, maintenance and repair of all electrical wiring, connections, fixtures, appliances, apparatus, machinery, equipment and work inside, outside, overhead or underground within his jurisdiction. He shall be the official representative of this jurisdiction to the code making body of this code and shall attend meetings where code changes are considered.

8107.012. Assistants. The enforcing official may delegate any of his powers or authority to any of his assistants.

Sec. 8107.020. Permits. No electrical equipment shall be installed within or on any building, structure or premises within the jurisdiction of the enforcing official, not shall any alteration or addition be made in any such existing equipment without first securing a permit therefore from the enforcing official.

8107 021 Exceptions — Permits shall not be required for the following:

.010 Minor repair work, the replacement of lamps or the connection of portable electrical equipment to suitable permanently installed receptacles.

.020 Installations used by electricity supply, railways or communication utilities in the exercise of their functions as a utility.

.030 The installation, alteration or repair of electrical equipment installed by or for an electricity supply agency for the use of such agency in the generation, transmission, distribution or metering of electricity.

8107.022 Permit application. Applications for electrical permits, describing the work to be done, shall be made in writing to the enforcing official by a licensed electrical contractor, his authorized representative, or by the person, form or corporation qualifying under Sub-sections 8107.023 or Sec. 8107.024 herein. The application shall be accompanied by such plans, specifications and schedules as may be necessary to determine whether the installations as described will be in conformity with the requirements of the sections in this code pertaining to electricity. If it shall be found that the installation as described will conform to all legal requirements, and, if the applicant has complied with the provisions of the sections in this code pertaining to electricity, a permit for such installation may be issued. No deviation may be made from the installation described in the permit without the written approval of the enforcing official.

8107.023 Annual permit. In lieu of an individual permit for each installation or alteration, a yearly permit shall, upon application therefore, be issued to any person, firm, or corporation regularly employing one or more qualified electrician for the installation, alteration and maintenance of electrical equipment in or on buildings or premises owned or occupied by the person applying for the permit. Application for permit shall be made in writing to the enforcing official and shall contain a description of the premises on which work is to be done.

.010 Monthly reports. Within not more than fifteen (15) days following the end of each calendar month, the person, firm or corporation to which an annual permit is issued shall transmit to the enforcing official a report of all electrical work which has been done under the permit during the preceding month.

.020 Records. The person, firm or corporation to which an annual permit is issued shall keep a record of all electrical equipment installed under said permit and the enforcing official shall be access to such records.

8107.024 Owner's permits. Any permit required by the sections of this code for electrical work in a single family dwelling used exclusively for living purposes, including the usual accessory building and quarters, where the same are occupied or are designed to be occupied by said owner, and, where said single family dwelling is the only dwelling on the lot or property, and, provided that said owner is electrically qualified and shall personally perform all labor in connection therewith, may be issued to said owner.

8107.025. Permit not transferrable. A permit issued to one person, firm or corporation shall not authorize any other person, firm or corporation, except an employee of the permittee to do any electrical wiring.

8107.026 Expiration of permits. Every permit shall expire and become null and void for any one or more of the following reasons:

.010 Whenever the electrical wiring authorized by a permit is not commenced within 180 days from the date of issuance of such permit.

.020 Whenever the electric wiring authorized by a permit has been suspended, abandoned or discontinued for a continuous period of 180 days.

.030 Whenever the electric wiring done during any continuous period of 180 days amounts to less than 10% of the total electric wiring authorized by such permit.

8107.027. Permit renewal. Before recommencing, proceeding with or doing any electrical wiring authorized by any expired permit, a new permit shall be obtained therefore and the fee for such permit shall be 50% of the fee required for a new permit.

8107.028. Revocations and suspensions of permits. The enforcing official may suspend or revoke any electrical permit for any of the following reasons:

.010 If any reason is found to exist which would have been cause for denial of such permit.

.020 Any misrepresentation or false statement in the application upon which said permit was issued.

.030 For failure to comply with the provisions of the sections in this code pertaining to electrical work; after due notice of corrections and the time limit therefore has expired; or failure to comply with other codes in this jurisdiction that may be related to or appertain to the sections in the code.

8107.029. Number of permits per job. Where one person, firm or corporation has an active rough wiring permit, and another person, firm or corporation intends to do the electrical equipment or fixture work on the same job, a final rough wiring inspection shall be made and approved before a permit for equipment or fixtures will be granted to a second person, firm or corporation.

Sec. 8107.030. Fees. All electrical fees shall be those as adopted by resolution of the Upland City Council per Sec. 8102.013 of this code.

Sec. 8107.040. Enforcement and penalties. Whenever necessary to make an inspection to enforce any of the provisions of this code, or whenever the enforcing official or his authorized representative has reasonable cause to believe that there exists in any building or upon any premises any condition which makes such building or premises unsafe as determined by the enforcing official, the enforcing official or his authorized representative may enter such building or premises at all rasonable times to inspect the same or to perform any duty imposed upon him by this code: provided that, if such building or premises be occupied, he shall first present proper credentials and demand entry; and if such building or premises be unoccupied, he shall first make a reasonable effort to locate the owner or other persons having charge or control of the building or premises and demand entry. If such entry is refused, the enforcing official or his authorized representative shall be recourse to every remedy by law to secure entry.

No owner or occupant or any person having charge, care or control of any building or premises shall fail or neglect after proper demand is made as herein provided, to properly permit entry therein by the enforcing official or his authorized representative for the purpose of inspection and examination pursuant to this code.

8107.041 Stop orders. Whenever any work is being done contrary to the provisions of this code, the enforcing official may order the work stopped by notice in writing served on any such persons engaged in doing or causing such work to be done, and any such persons shall forthwith stop such work until authorized by the enforcing official to proceed with the work.

8107.042 Authority to disconnect electrical energy. Whenever the enforcing official determines that any electrical wiring devices, apparatus, equipment or any part thereof, is in a dangerous condition or is hazardous to life, health or property, the use thereof shall be prohibited by the enforcing official and notice to that effect shall be attached thereto. Such notice shall not be removed except by the enforcing official or his authorized representative nor shall it be removed until electric wiring devices, appliances, apparatus, or equipment is made safe. In cases of imminent danger where necessary for safety or persons or property, or where electrical equipment may interfere with fire fighting personnel, the enforcing official shall have the authority to immediately disconnect or cause the disconnection of any electrical equipment.

8107.043 Inspection and utility connections. When any part of a wiring installation is to be hidden from view by the permanent placement of parts of the building, the person, firm or corporation installing the wiring shall notify the enforcing official and such parts of the wiring installation shall not be concealed until they have been inspected and approved by the enforcing official or his representative; provided that on large installations, where concealment of parts of wiring proceeds continuously, the person, form or corporation installing the wiring shall give the enforcing official due notice and inspections shall be made periodically during the progress of the work. The enforcing official shall have the power to remove, or require the removal of any obstruction that prevents proper inspection of any electrical equipment.

.010 Upon completion of any electrical installation which has been authorized by issuance of a permit, except permits issued for work done under an annual permit, it shall be the duty of the person, firm or corporation doing the work to notify the enforcing official who shall inspect work to be done in conformity with the provisions of the code. The enforcing official shall then issue to the person, firm or corporation performing the work a certificate of approval, and shall send authorization to the electrical utility furnishing the electrical service, if, upon inspection, the installation is not found to be fully in conformity with the provisions of this code, the enforcing official shall at once notify the person, firm or corporation performing the work stating the defects which have been found to exist. All defects shall be corrected with ten (10) days after inspection and notification or within other reasonable time as permitted by the enforcing official. When a certificate of approval is issued authorizing the temporary connections and use of any electrical installation such certificate shall be issued to expire at a time to be stated therein and shall be revocable by the enforcing official.

.020 Whenever practical, the enforcing official shall visit all premises where work has been done under an annual permit, and shall inspect all electric wiring, devices, appliances and equipment installed under such a permit since the date of his last previous inspection, and shall issue a certificate of approval for such work as is found to be in conformity with the provisions of this code after the required fee has been paid.

8107.044 Violations. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or coporation to install, alter or maintain any electrical wiring, device, appliance or equipment in the jurisdiction, or cause the same to be done contrary to or in violation of any of the provisions of this code. Maintenance of such equipment which is unlawful under this code, if installed after the effective date of this code, shall constitute a continuing violation of this code.

.010 Except where work is done under an annual permit it shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to make connection from a source of electrical energy or equipment for the installation of which a permit is required, unless such person, firm or corporation shall have obtained satisfactory evidence from the enforcing official that such wiring, devices, appliances or equipment are in all respects in conformity with all applicable legal provisions.

.020 It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to make a connection to any source of electrical energy or to supply electric service to any electric wiring, devices, appliances or equipment which has been disconnected or ordered to be disconnected by the enforcing official, or the use of which has been ordered by the enforcing official to be disconnected, until a certificate of approval has ben issued by him authorizing the reconnection and the use of such wiring, devices, appliances or equipment. The enforcing official shall notify the serving utuility of such order to discontinue service.

8107.045 Liability. The enforcing official or any employee charged with the enforcement of this code, acting in good faith and without malice for the jurisdiction in the discharge of his duties, shall not thereby render himself liable personally and he thereby is relieved from all personal liability for any damage that may accrue to persons or property as a result of any act required, or by reason of any act or omission in the discharge of his duties. Any suit brought against the enforcing official or employees because of such act or omission performed by him in the enforcement of any provisions of this code, shall be defended by the legal department of the jurisdiction until final terminiation of the proceedings.

8107.046 Responsibility. This code shall not be construed to relieve, or lessen, the responsibility of any party, owning, operating, controlling or installing any electric wiring, electric devices, or electric material, for damages to persons or property caused by any defects therein, nor, shall the jurisdiction be held as assuming any such liability by reason of the inspection authorized herein, or, certificate of inspection issued as herein provided.

DELTE SECTION 8100.2 — "SAME. WATER FUND ADDITIVE", is hereby deleted and a new part added to read as follows:

PART II — WATER FUND ADDITIVE

CHAPTER 8108 — WATER FUND ADDITIVE

Section 8101.010. Intent and purpose. The money paid to the building official pursuant to this chapter shall be deposited in a separate fund to be known as the Water Acquisition and Expansion Fund, and, shall be used solely for the purposes of acquiring water stock, acquiring water, acquiring rights to water, constructing additions to any part of the water system, or, improving the water system of the City of Upland.

Sec. 8108.020. Fees. If the building permit is for the construction of a new building, or, is for the alteration, or, repair of any moved building, a fee in the amount herein provided shall be paid to the building official, said fee shall be in addition to all other fees required by this code. The building official shall not issue a building permit until the addition fee provided by this subsection has been paid, and, a payment under protest shall not be accepted.

The amount of the additional fee to be charged, shall be set by resolution of the City Council of the City of Upland from time to time.

Sec. 8110.020 Administered by city engineer.

Renumber Sec. 8900.2 "Permits" to read:

Sec. 8110.030 Permits.

No person shall do any grading without first having obtained a grading permit from the City Engineer, except for those special instances identified as items 2 through 7 of Section 7003 of Chapter 70 of said Uniform Building Code, and also except for the following:

.010 An excavation which is less than eighteen (18) inches measured vertically from the natural ground surface, providing said excavation is at least five (5) feet from any property line, and provided said excavation does not significantly change either the amount or direction of drainage runoff from said property.

.020 A fill less than twelve (12) inches in depth, and placed on natural terrain, not intended to support structures, and which does not obstruct a drainage course, providing said fill does not significantly change either the amount or direction of drainage runoff from said property. (Ord. No. 960, SS1, 5-15-72; Ord. No. 1028, SS 10, 7-1-74)

Delete Section 8900.3 — "Grading Plan Requirement", in its entirety and amend to read as follows:

Section 8110.040 — Grading Plan Requirements.

Grading plans shall be prepared and certified by an approved professional firm which has demonstrated competency in the preparation of said type of engineering plans to the City Engineer. Each application for a grading permit shall be accompanied by copies of the certified grading plan, including all applicable specifications and special provisions. The number of copies shall be set by Engineering Directive issued by the City Engineer. Supporting data consisting of a soil engineering report and engineering geology report shall be required only when deemed necessary by the City Engineer. Said grading plan, specifications, special provisions, and other supporting data shall be submitted to the City Engineer for review. Specific requirements for preparation, processing, review, and approval of a certified grading plan, including all applicable specifications and special provisions, shall be established by the City Engineer and shall be issued in the form of Standard Drawings, identified as Series CU-E of the approved Standard Drawings of the City of Upland, and also in the form of Engineering Directives, identified as Series ED-E of the approved Engineering Directives of the City of Upland.

Renumber Sec. 8900.4 "Fees", to read:

Sec. 8110.50 Fees.

Section 8100.070. Special Permission.

To have any of the limits and/or requirements, as listed above in Section 8110.040 through 8110.060; waived, a written request must be submitted to the Administrative Committee, which Committee shall make a finding thereupon Appeals to determinations made by the Administrative Committee shall be made to the City Council in accordance with the established procedures for such appeals.

Renumber Sec. 8900.7 — "Testing by the City', to read:

Sec. 8110.080 Testing by the City.

Delete Section 8900.8 — "Unacceptable Work", in its entirety and amend to read as follows:

Section 8110.080. Unacceptable Work.

If any person who has performed work not in conformity with the provisions of this Chapter, does not correct said work to bring it into conformity within thirty (30) days after being notified in writing by the City Engineer of the nature and extent of the unacceptable work, and provided said person has the ability to then bring said work into conformity, then the said person shall be guilty of an infraction.

Section 8110.080 Emergency

In the event that the grading activity creates a potentially hazardous condition to either the health, safety or welfare of the City of Upland or any of its citizens, the City Engineer shall give to the owner of the land on which said potentially hazardous condition has been created a notice to immediately abate the hazard and in the event, in the discretion of the City Engineer, there is not time for said notice the City shall have the right to abate the hazard and assess against the real property upon which said hazard exists for the reasonable cost of abating said hazard and after a ten (10) days written notice to the owner of his opportunity to object to the costs so assessed, the City shall place a lien upon the said real property for said costs and said lien shall be placed upon the next real property tax bill if not so paid within ten (10) days after the assessment hearing before the Council.

Section III. Validity.

If any section, subsection, sentence, clause or phrase of this Ordinance is for any reason held to be invalid, such holding or holdings, shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of this Ordinance. The City Council hereby declares that it would have passed this Ordinance and each section, subsection, sentence, clause or phrase thereof irrespective of the fact that any one or more section, subsection, sentence, clause or phrase be declared invalid.

Section IV. PUBLICATION.

This Ordinance shall be signed by the Mayor, attested by the City Clerk, and published in the Upland News in pursuance to the requirements of the California Government Code.

Job of making copy of Torah definitely not for amateurs

By ROBERT DI VEROLI
Copley News Service

You get an idea of what the Torah means to a Jew by the trouble involved in making one.

The copying of a Torah, which consists of the first five books of the Bible, is not a job for amateurs.

You have to know how many lines are permitted to the page, how long each line can be and how deep the spaces between them can be.

You have to copy it on a certain kind of parchment (made from the skins of a kosher animal), with ink of a certain color (black) and bind it with a certain kind of thread (made of animal sinews).

You must write with the quill of a goose, turkey or other winged animal.

No metal may be used in writing or preparing a Torah.

After he finishes the scroll, the sofer, or scribe, attaches each end to wooden rods called "etz chayim," or "tree of life."

He then adorns the Torah with a silver breastplate symbolic of the one worn by the temple high priest, covers it with a mantle and binds it with a sash.

The mantle bears the Ten Commandments and the names of the donors.

With all this, the sofer must excel in more than penmanship, however.

"You have to be an artist, a scholar, a very patient man and, above all, a very holy man," said Rabbi Eliezer Langer of Beth Jacob Congregation in San Diego.

The sofer must be holy because in a very real sense, Jews believe, the man will be reflected in his work, the holiest of all Jewis writings, given to Moses, greatest of all Jewish prophets, directly by God.

The care with which the Torah — every synagogue has at least one — is prepared as a tribute, in other words, to its source.

And it is because of that source that the Torah, for believing Jews, is not just a book, but a way of life.

"There never was any prophet at the level of Moses. He spoke to God face to face, and because of that we take these words as of supreme importance," said Langer.

Containing the books of Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers and Deuteronomy, the Torah gives beliving Jews God's unchanging, unchangeable law as he gave it to Moses, Langer said.

Torahs can be of different sizes, but their stature never varies.

The Torah is, in a sense, what makes a synagogue a synagogue.

It tells people that Judaism is a "religion of the book," a religion with a written message direct from God.

It tells what happened from God's creation of the world to the death of Moses, the lawgiver.

It tells of the origins of the Israelites, the patriarchs, the Jews' enslavement in Egypt, their deliverance and God's revelations to them in the Sinai wilderness.

The Torah, a word which means "guidance" or "doctrine," prescribes the laws by which men are to live, the rituals by which they are to worship God and the holy, festive days of the year.

It sets forth a religious, civil and criminal law.

It calls the Jews "a holy nation," a chosen people thorugh whom all mankind is to be blessed.

Stored away in the holy ark inside the temple during the week, the Torah is taken out to be read on the Sabbath.

Once a year it is read in its entirety, a little at a time each week.

When the reading is finished, it is begun again shortly after Rosh Hashannah, the New Year's celebration, each September.

"The idea is that we never complete our study of the Torah, so that we simply start reading it all over again," said Langer.

A temple's acquisition of a Torah scroll is by its very nature a festive occasion, replete with a parade and the appropriate formalities.

To give every temple member a chance, however small, to be part of the writing of a Torah, the last words of a Torah scroll are always left to be completed at dedication time.

The purpose of this meticulousness, said Langer, is "to ensure absolute fidelity in all ways, reproduction as well as interpretation, to the original word of God as handed down by God himself."

Not all Jews interpret the Torah alike.

Traditionalist Jews believe the Torah was revealed by God and is infallibly true throughout. Some modernists believe the Roah is inspired to the extent that it reflects truth and stands the test of reason and experience.

The modernist believes the torah can change with the times. The traditionalist does not.

"Orthodox Jews look upon the Torah as the word of God given to Moses and written down almost as a secretary writes down words given to her," said Langer.

Questions to consider about home

Picture your dream house. Is it a sprawling ranch house, a dignified 20th century townhouse, or a Cape Cod style clapboard house? Is it modern or traditional, or a mixture of both?

What about the interior? Do you picture cozy rooms with fieldstone or brick fireplaces, or do you imagine ultra-modern, streamlined furniture?

Is the view from the living room window an expanse of trees, or the hustle and bustle of city streets far below?

As you take stock of this, you will begin to realize the sort of person you are — and the sort of home in which you would like to be living.

If the latter is relatively close in style to your present abode, great!

Whether your changes are as major as reroofing or residing your home, or as small as the purchase of a few new knick-knacks to display in the living room, they'll make you feel "at-home."

Awards night

An awards night for winners of the Walk for the Handicapped (Nov. 15) will be held by the Altrusa Club of Ontario-Upland on Dec. 11 at Lincoln Development Center, 440 Allyn Ave., Ontario. A surprise celebrity will make the presentations.

Kathleen Flannery, Upland attorney, was a guest speaker during the recent Altrusa dinner meeting. His subject was on estate planning for women.

55 SAVES LIVES

It works!

The 55MPH speed limit… it works! Since 1974, the year the speed limit began, it's been the single biggest factor in reducing highway deaths… by more than 36,000. And don't forget. 55 saves gas. Driving at 55 rather than 70 can improve gas mileage up to 39%. So keep up the good work. Keep your speed at 55. It works – for all of us…

These white net, miniature trees will decorate Griswold's Pavilion on Dec. 14 when Assistance League of Upland stages its "Christmas Tree Brunch." Checking over the decorations are, from left, Mrs. William Windhovel, Mrs. Kenneth Ridd and Mrs. Jerry Swenson.

Brunch will feature special yule trees

Uniquely decorated Christmas trees will be in the spotlight on Sunday, Dec. 14, when Assistance League of Upland holds its "Christmas Tree Brunch" at Griswold's Pavilion in Claremont.

Festivities will get underway at 10:30 a.m. with a no-host social hour, when guests will have the opportunity to view the trees and be entertained by the Claremont High School Chamber Singers.

Trees for the event, all originally decorated and titled, will follow various themes. League members have been working on the decorations since early this summer.

"Victorian Potpourri" entitles the yule tree that reflects nostalgic memories of the Victorian era with its decorations of beribboned floral nosegays, delicate wreaths of lace, cornucopias filled with sugar plums and painted bejewled eggs amid a sea of snowflakes. The tree will be surrounded by the fragrance of potpourri emanating from satin pillows in golden baskets. A flaxen-haired angel in a satin and lace gown will top the tree. Chairman of this creation is Mrs. Wolfgang Koessler.

Mrs. Milton Bracey is chairman of "Oriental Splendor," a tree to be lavishly decorated with articles from the Far East, including fans of gold and black, small glass wind chimes, red lanterns and decorative gold medallions. An accent of white handmade tassels completes the theme for this tree that will have a skirt made of large, oriental fans.

"The Gingham Bell and the Calico Star" tree will be decked out in gingham and calico braided wreaths, stars, stockings, candy canes, bells and balls. Adorning the top will be a muslin and gingham angel, while the skirt is of gingham with calico holly and berries on it. Mrs. Eugene DeYoung is chairman of decorating this tree.

Mrs. Michael Gamson and Mrs. Phillip Jones and members of their committee are decorating "Christmas Tide," a tree designed to stir the imagination of people who are fascinated by the sea. Shells gathered by league members from the oceans of the world have been enhanced and decorated to create this Christmas tree.

"Christmas Spirits in Miniature," chaired by Mrs. James Edgerton, is a novelty tree of 70 miniature bottles of liquor, plastic champagne glasses, coasters, red and white bows and swizzlesticks fashioned into tree ornaments. Carrying out the theme of this "Tree Untrimming Party" tree is a skirt made of gores of red and printed material with champagne glasses and bubbles made of felt.

Mrs. G.A. Park, chairman of the "End of the Rainbow" tree, and her committee will bedeck a live tree with gold-wrapped chocolates, pine cones, ribbons of rainbow hues at the end of which are pots of gold. A check for $100 goes with this treasure tree.

'Twas the Night Before Christmas" is the theme selected by members of the Assisteens Auxiliary of the league, who are decorating a natural tree with wooden, handpainted toys, multicolored bows and streamers and garlands of gum balls. A large, multicolored lollipop tied with multicolored ribbons will top this Christmas tree.

"Flocking Together" is again the theme of the yule tree being trimmed by members of Las Tias Auxiliary of the league. They are using white miniature lights and all red ornaments on a white-flocked tree. Mrs. George Brannan and her committee members will use red cardinal birds in nests as the predominant ornamentation.

Centerpieces of red chimneys, frosted greenery, pine cones, velvet bows and little packages will decorate the tables. Mrs. Guy S. MacKnight and her committee members are responsible for the table decorations and also for white net miniature trees with green, gold and silver balls that also will be used in decorations and will be topped with angels.

Mrs. James Bell and Mrs. Wallace Hay are chairmen of this year's brunch under the supervision of Mrs. Thomas A. Hancock, ways and means chairman. Other committee chairmen are: the Mmes. Milton Bracey, invitations; Glenn Fisher, responses; James F. Garliepp Jr., reservations; C. Lewis Trine, programs; Gary Trager, hostess; Hay, publicity; David Tobias, transportation; John S. Frost, display cards and boxes; David Dunkin, tickets; and Donald Clark, stage decorations.

Funds raised from the brunch will benefit children of the West End through the primary philanthropies of the league. Those are the Cucamonga Girls Club, the San Antonio Community Hospital Dental Center and Scholastic Aptitude Test preparatory classes.

Reservations for the brunch close Dec. 5. For information, call league members or telephone 982-7472.

AYSO will stage gala carnival

A special carnival for the public will be staged on Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 29 and Nov. 30, by the Upland American Youth Soccer Organization (AYSO), Region 32, at the Youth Soccer Park on West 11th Street in Upland near Benson Avenue.

Twenty-five game booths will be manned by AYSO teams for the event to be held from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Nov. 29 and from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Nov. 30. The carnival also will feature a snack bar, live bands, prizes and marching bands from local high schools.

Carnival chairman is Claude Ellena and regional commissioner for AYSO is Bill Townsend.

Purpose of the carnival is to thank all the players, parents and the community for their support of the AYSO program and all the time and effort in constructing the new soccer park.

Proceeds from the event are earmarked to maintain the fields and to help construct a snack bar on the fields, which now are in their second year of use.

Region 32 of AYSO includes 135 teams of approximately 2,000 boys and girls between the ages of 7 and 17 with boys from 10 to 12 comprising the largest group.

West End cities grow rapidly, census indicates

By JIM MARXEN
Staff Writer

The West End is growing rapidly, according to updated preliminary census figures, but at least one city is unhappy with the results.

Revised preliminary figures released by the federal census bureau give Rancho Cucamonga a population of 54,708 — up from an earlier federal figure of 53,777 residents but well below the city's projection of 56,000.

If the census figures are incorrect, city officials say, it could mean that Rancho Cucamonga will not receive the state aid it is entitled to.

Population figures are used by the state in calculating how much a city will receive in revenue sharing, vehicle taxes, gasoline taxes and other state subventions.

Other West End cities fared better with the census figures. After Ontario was assigned a population of 77,000 by the state Finance Department, August census totals gave the city a population of 84,784. Updated figures increased the total to 87,800.

Preliminary figures gave Upland a population of 45,321 in August but revised figures increased the total to 47,073.

The number of housing units within Upland has been revised to 18,643, down slightly from the original figure of 18,872.

Upland planning director Bill Young was pleased with the revised figures.

"These estimates are right in sync with what staff had figured," he said. "I won't be recommending a field survey of housing units as I was planning."

Montclair officials were also upset with the preliminary totals. Last August's figures placed the city's population at 21,716 but revised figures give the city 22,558 residents.

Even with the increase, however, the city's population would have risen only slightly over the 1970 total of 22,546.

City administrator G. Michael Milhiser said the 1970 figure was an overestimation and that the increase is actually larger that it appeared.

He said the census bureau neglected to count a residential tract in the city's sphere of influence that could provide the city with an additional 500 people.

Population figures for Chino were not available.

City officials in Rancho Cucamonga were not pleased with the figures released in August because they felt those totals were much lower than estimates made by staff members.

Although growth rates were lower than anticipated, Rancho Cucamonga experienced at least a 5.1 percent increase in its population this year, according to city finance director Harry Empey.

A special count made by the city in January showed a population of 52,900. Empey said the city has conducted a special census since 1979 to ensure it receives the proper amount of state subventions.

As a result, he added, the city will not see as big an increase in state funds as those cities that do not regularly updatepopultation figures.

"It's a little less than what we anticipated," Empey said. "The projections we've been working on put the figure closer to 56,000."

Empey said the city could be "shortchanged" by approximately $36,000 in gasoline tax money alone if the federal figures are too low.

Cities received population estimates by telegram last week and like the August estimates, the totals are preliminary. Final figures are expected before the end of the year and the preliminary totals cannot be used in obtaining state funds.

Upland mayor picks committee members

Upland Mayor John McCarthy has announced the appointment of seven people to various city committees and boards.

Allen E. Mitchell was appointed to the Upland Housing Authority for the remainder of a term that expires July 31, 1983. Viola O'Neal was reappointed to the authority, through July 31, 1984.

William Walk Jr. was named to the Upland Public Library Board of Directors, and Councilman Frank Carpenter will replace Mayor Pro Tem Ina Petokas as alternate member of the San Bernardino Associated Governments (SANBAG).

Three people were named to the city's Traffic Safety Committee, including Donna Vandersall, P.T.A. representative; Fred Strohte, citizen-at-large; and Richard Riley, representing the Upland School District.

Riley's resignation from the library board was also announced.

Scientist searches small, large clues for universe's key

By BOB CORBETT
Copley News Service

Dr. Arno Penzias is the kind of scientist who can find the universe in a coffee cup and the secret of life in a flower.

A Nobel Prize winner, Penzias can reduce a cup of coffee (cream and sugar, if you please) to its basic constituents and tell you — in broad terms — when and where they were formed since the "big bang" set the universe in motion some 18 billion years or so ago.

The elements of the coffee, he suggested, might have been created in the nuclear furnace of an ancient star, in the supernova explosion of a dying giant star or maybe with the big bang itself.

Penzias won the Nobel Prize in 1978 for his work with Dr. Robert W. Wilson, both researchers for the Bell Telephone Laboratories in New Jersey, for the discovery of cosmic microwave background radiation.

This background radiation, detected by radio antennas, seems to come from all parts of the universe.

It is now generally accepted as the whisper of the big bang and a proof that this cataclysmic event did, indeed, occur.

During an interview, Penzias told how he and other researchers at the Bell Labs are trying to trace the structure and the history of the universe by measuring the abundances and relationships of a whole series of radioactive isotopes (offbeat forms of common elements) that their radio antennas detected in outer space.

For example, Penzias noted that carbon-13, an isotope of carbon, that might be in coffee could very well have been created in the interior of the Milky Way galaxy, the one in which our sun exists.

The abundance of carbon-13, he said, can be taken as measure of the creation of new stars.

On the other hand, he noted, isotopes of silicon and sulfur atoms were probably produced in the supernova explosion of a massive star, maybe 100,000 to 10 million times the weight of our own sun, in its final death throes.

Deuterium, an isotope of hydrogen sometimes called "heavy hydrogen," represents a different slant on the universe, according to Penzias. Deuterium probably was formed during the initial big bang.

The isotope, he said, has never been involved in the process of star formation or death and can thus be taken as a measure of the purity of the huge gas clouds that populatethe intergalactic and interstellar medium.

As an aside, Penzias said there is probably a trillion tons of deuterium in the seas of the Earth. Deuterium is the fuel for the fusion process scientists around the world are busily trying to harness. Fusion gains its energy from forcing atoms together rather than splitting them as in modern fission nuclear reactors.

It has been estimated by another Nobel Prize winner, Dr. Harold C. Urey and others that there is enough deuterium in the seas to feed the world's energy needs for at least the lifetime of the planet.

By reading the signatures of these and other isotopes (he keeps track of about 50), Penzias hopes to shed some insight into the structure and history of the universe.

The Milky Way, he noted, is still growing, creating new stars adding more matter from the intergalactic medium through its gravitational pull despite the fact that it is more than 10 billion years old.

Moderate rise from recession seen by UCB

By BRUCE THORNTON
Staff Writer

A moderate recovery from the economic slump that has plagued the United States in 1980 will be experienced in 1981, a United California Bank economist predicted in Riverside Wednesday night.

But there are possible pitfalls, P. Kenneth Ackbarali, monetary economist, indicated in addressing an audience of about 200 at a presentation of the bank's economic and monetary outlook for 1981.

After setting forth facts and figures for an hour to back up his prediction that there probably will be no new recession next year, Ackbarali then played the role of devil's advocate and asked the question:

"What could go wrong in 1981?"

He said he would not list a number of things; he would suggest only one.

"And if it goes wrong," he added, "everything else goes wrong."

His answer: the war between Iran and Iraq.

If this becomes a protracted war, he said, it might seriously affect oil supplies and that could mean worldwide trouble.

The economist noted that if Saudi Arabia becomes involved it could pose a great difficulty because of the large amount of oil Saudi Arabia ships, much of it to the United States.

Should the war produce a complete shipping blockade, he added, "it would be devastating and we could have a widespread recession."

Otherwise dealing with the prospects of 1981, Ackbarali said the country could look for:

— A tax cut, expected to offset a scheduled increase in Social Security taxes and to provide benefits for business.

— A rise in consumer spending because of growing confidence.

— Better auto sales. Detroit's more fuel-efficient new cars are expected to provide a boost.

— Greater federal outlays for defense.

— An increase but not a rebound in housing construction.

He listed the following as "some of the negatives":

— Inflation will remain at double digit levels, eroding purchasing power.

— The Federal Reserve Board will not back away from its anti-inflationary stance and, consequently, interest rates will remain high.

— Curbs will remain on state and local government spending.

He predicted that the inflation rate will subside gradually but remain at about 10 percent for the year.

Ackbarali noted that one of the biggest contributors to the 1980 inflation rate was the "big increase" in the price of OPEC oil, which he said has risen 110 percent this year over the average price in 1979.

As for the local picture, the UCB official said the Riverside and San Bernardino counties area will record the greatest growth rate of the 17 economic entities studied by the bank in California. He predicted increases in jobs, population and personal income.

He foresees a population increase in the two-county area of 4.5 percent next year, compared with a projected increase of 1.7 percent for the state.

Ventura County, the second - ranking metropolitan area, will record an increase of approximately 3.2 percent, he predicted.

In California as a whole, he said, "the outlook is for a real good year in 1981," with the gross state product expected to reach $352 billion. He also sees a decline in the state's unemployment rate.

If California were a nation, he pointed out, it would rank as the ninth largest economic entity in the world.
